BIG ARMY DIRIGIBLE BLEW UP

LIVE STOCK BURNED IN STUBBORN FIRE AT COUNTY INSTITUTION

Seven Pigs Lost at Middlesex County Training School Today as Fire Destroys Tool Shed, Lean-to and Horse Barn—Fire Started in Pile of Leaves—Cause Unknown

Fire, which started about 8 o'clock this morning and burned fiercely for an hour or more, damaged three buildings of the Middlesex county training school in North Chelmsford to the extent of several thousand dollars. Seven pigs were lost in the fire, while 16 others, 6 cows and three horses quartered in the buildings, were either removed before the flames started or saved during the height of the blaze. A large tool shed, under which the fire started in a pile of dry leaves, a lean-to used to shelter cows and a large three-story barn, with an ell, were entirely or partially destroyed. Supt. Charles G. Hoyt was unable to estimate the entire loss, but said the amount would run into the thousands as there were many expensive tools and wagons in the buildings.

Shortly before 8 o'clock boys quartered in the Richardson cottage noticed smoke coming from the rear of the toolhouse, a one-story affair with a nine-foot cellar. At almost the same time Headmaster Kellman of the Richardson cottage saw the smoke and rushed to the toolhouse. As he reached the rear of the structure a big blaze flared up, completely enveloping the rear of the house.

Other employees were attracted to the scene and they succeeded in getting out the 16 hogs. The seven pigs were caught behind a fiery wall and it was said the amount would run into the

MRS. HALL AND BROTHER TAKEN TO COURTHOUSE BY DETECTIVE

Authorities Investigating Double Slaying Plan Further Examination of Widow of Slain Rector and Her Eccentric Brother—Reporters Barred

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 17. (By the Associated Press.)—Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall and her eccentric brother, Willie Stevens, were brought to the courthouse by Detective Fred David shortly after 11 o'clock today, for further examination by authorities investigating the murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Hall.

Mrs. Hall and her brother were accompanied by Miss Sally Peters, a close friend of the rector's widow and another woman.

After their arrival, County Prosecutor Beckman of Somerset and Stricker of Middlesex—who have predicted at least two arrests before night—began questioning Henry Stevens, another brother of Mrs. Hall, who had driven over from his home in Lavallois in response to a summons.

Men working on the Hall-Mills case were barred from the courthouse during the examinations.

PITCHED BATTLE ON LIQUOR BAN

Wet and Dry Forces Face Each Other Before Judge Hand in New York

Forces of Government and Ship Lines Open Fight on Attorney General's Order

NEW YORK, Oct. 17. (By the Associated Press.) Wet and dry forces face each other today before Judge Learned Hand in the first pitched battle between federal prohibition enforcement authorities and foreign and American steamship lines over the validity of Attorney-General Daugherty's liquor ruling.

The calendar of Judge Hand's court was cleared for the hearings of temporary injunctions returnable today, restraining the enforcement authorities from putting into effect the ruling forbidding American and foreign ships, leaving port after October 21, from carrying liquor under seal into or out of American ports.

The government forces were prepared to present arguments to show cause why they should not be permitted to enforce the ruling into effect the provisions of the Daugherty ruling. Attorneys for the steamship companies were prepared for a bitter fight, it was stated by representatives of both factions.

All of the American lines of the American Steamship Owners' Association and foreign lines will await the results of today's hearing before taking action.

SECOND LEG OF ENDURANCE TEST

20 Horses and Riders Left Brandon, Vt., Early This Morning in a Driving Rain

One Horse and Two Riders Were Unable to Continue —"Oh La" Withdrawn

BRANDON, Vt., Oct. 17.—Twenty horses and riders left here in a driving rain early this morning for Burlington, on the second 60 mile leg of the 300 mile endurance test for army mounts.

One horse and two riders were unable to continue the journey, which brought the cavalcade to this town from Fort Ethan Allen, yesterday. The Anglo-Arab mare named "Oh, La," owned by W. R. Brown of Berlin, N. H., and ridden by Lorey Prentiss, was bothered by soreness as she left the stables and her owner withdrew before she had gone 200 yards from her stall.

J. Howard Lemaine of Boston, who rode his Kentucky mare "Sunray" on yesterday's leg, suffered from an attack of indigestion last night, and today James Hennessy had the mount on "Sunray."

The other rider to withdraw was J. M. Ritenour, who was replaced on the Morgan mare "Scotia" today by Austin Gibson. Mr. Ritenour's horse fell at Hinesburg yesterday and aggravated an injury to the rider's knee.

The route today lay over the rain-soaked country roads reaching Burlington by way of Bristol and Hinesburg. The noon stop was to be made at the former place.

National Adjutant Urges Commanders To Take Steps to Secure All War Chest Collections — Rehabilitation Question Again Chief Topic of Discussion at Convention—Veterans Honor Landis and MacNider

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 17. (By the Associated Press.)—The American Legion in national convention here heard Samuel Gompers, head of the American Federation of Labor, tell of labor's aims and aspirations and what it believes its rights and duties are.

Mr. Gompers and Kenneth M. Landis, supreme commissioner of baseball, received a noisy welcome from the veterans when they entered the convention hall.

Presentation of the national colors to the delegates opened the session.

Handford Alexander then presented John Barton Payne, national head of the American Red Cross, and declared that the Red Cross had done a great deal to carry out the Legion's policy in regard to the disabled.

Commander John J. Rigert of the federal bureau of education then extended greetings to the Legion. The men who came back from France, Mr. Rigert said, were disillusioned when they found that some men "had transmuted into gold the blood they shed on behalf of high and fine ideals."

PRIMARY IN GEORGIA

Democrats to Nominate Successor to the Late U. S. Senator Watson

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 17. (By the Associated Press.)—Georgians voted today in a special democratic primary, to nominate a successor to the late United States Senator Thomas E. Watson.

Each of the four candidates, Governor Thomas W. Hardwick, Senator Wright, John R. Cooper and Walter P. George, made last minute claims of the support of the "loyal 50,000" following of Watson, the "Sage of McDuffie county," and expressed confidence of being nominated.

Today's primary is being watched with interest by political observers.

Mrs. William H. Patton, the first woman United States senator, will end her term after the general election Nov. 7. She publicly endorsed the candidacy of Governor Hardwick, who appointed her following the death of Senator Watson to serve until a successor could be elected.

TO PREPARE CLAUSES OF TURKISH TREATY

PARIS, Oct. 17. (By the Associated Press.) The British government has suggested to France and Italy, the immediate calling of a preliminary conference in London at which the experts would prepare the economic and financial clauses of the Turkish peace treaty. The Italian government has accepted and will appoint its delegates.

The French government has taken the suggestion under consideration for a brief period. The British believe the conference should begin its sessions Oct. 20.

Was Preparing to Resume Return Journey of Transcontinental Flight

Being Towed Out of Hangar When Wind Tossed Her Against Big Door

Bag Ripped—Explosion Follows—All on Board Had Narrow Escape

Lt. Ball Crushed to Death When Airplane Fell 500 Feet at Kelley Field

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 17. (By the Associated Press.) The army dirigible C-2, carrying a score of persons, exploded and was destroyed by fire today at Brooks Field, near here. All on board and nearby escaped without fatality.

Four injured.

Those injured when the C-2 fell here today were: Major John MacD. Thompson, headquarters, Fort Sam Houston, wrist broken.

Lieut. O. A. Anderson and Sergeant August D. Albrecht, legs broken.

Ben Baines, newspaperman of San Antonio, arm broken and possible internal injuries.

Major H. H. Strauss, commander of the craft, was slightly hurt, one of his legs being wrenched. He is able to be up and prepare a detailed report to commanding officers here.

The C-2, preparing to resume the return journey of a transcontinental flight, was being towed out of a hangar when the wind caught her and threw her against a big door, which ripped the gas bag. An instant later she was in flames.

With a score of persons on board, the C-2 was unleashed and raised slightly above the floor of the hangar. Crowds stood around the door and outside and at the first sign of danger, they scattered in all directions.

Ben Baines, a reporter for the San Antonio Express, was on the door.

FOR GREEK REPUBLIC

Campaign Has Strongly Aroused the Royalist Newspapers

ATHENS, Oct. 17. (By the Associated Press.) The campaign to make Greece a republic, launched directly after the return from Paris of the new foreign minister, Nicholas Politis, prominently featured today, has strongly aroused the royalist newspapers.

Nea Himeria declares that in its judgment the Greek people will overwhelmingly oppose the idea of a republic at the coming elections, and that at any rate, they would distrust a republic presided over by M. Venizelos.

The other royalist organs also defy the Venizelists to go openly before the people as sponsors of a republic, beggars.

NO HEARING THIS FORENOON ON THE LOWELL MANDAMUS CASES

Counsel Dismissed Until This Afternoon —Believed That Much of the Anticipated Argument Will Not Materialize —Lawyers Engaged on Opposite Sides Have Agreed on Many Facts

(Special to The Sun)

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—Because of a press of business that had priority right, the two Lowell mandamus cases, resulting from controversy over the petition for Plan B charter were not called in the supreme court at the Pemberton square courthouse during the morning session today.

At 11:30 o'clock counsel were dismissed until 2 p. m. when the court reconvened for the afternoon session.

When the cases are called before Justice Deane it is very probable that much of the anticipated argument will not materialize for counsel engaged on opposite side in both cases have agreed on many of the facts. So thorough has been the agreement in the Plan B. or mayors' petition, which seeks to keep the petition off the ballot, that it is expected only arguments of counsel will be heard.

In the matter of the second petition, however, the one filed by the original board of election commissioners, asking for legal recognition and freedom from interference, no agreement has been reached as to alleged fraudulence of signatures upon the petition, or as to the good faith of the action of the mayor and the original and temporary boards. This case is expected to furnish a great deal of court controversy, but an attempt will be made to try both cases simultaneously.

Answers have been filed with the court by the secretary of the commonwealth and City Clerk Stephen Flynn, both of whom have been named by the mayor as respondents in his petition.

Present in the court room this morning were Mayor George H. Brown, City Solicitor Edward J. Tierney, Edward Mulry, Hugh C. McOsker, J. Omer Alard, Thomas H. Braden and Joseph H. Maguire of the old board of election commissioners; Joseph A. Cloutier, Paul M. O'Dowd, Lorenzo A. Gould and Patrick F. Kierman of the temporary board; Attorney John M. O'Donoghue, associated with Mr. Tierney, Assistant Attorney General York Pearson, the secretary of state; Fisher Pearson, representing Clerk Flynn and Albert S. Howard and Melvin G. Rogers, representing the original election commission, and certain signers of the Plan B petition.

$4000 WORTH OF BEER, WINE AND JAMAICA GINGER DESTROYED

Home Made Wine and Beer and 400 Bottles of Jamaica Ginger in "Fatal Smashup"—Lowell Moonshine Taken to Boston to Be Redistilled

At the request of the police department of this city, state agents came to Lowell this morning and destroyed 4000 worth of "outlaw" liquors which had fallen into the clutches of the prohibition officers as the result of recent raids on premises hereabouts. This morning's "killing" included 300 gallons of beer of the genus home-brew, 400 bottles of Jamaica ginger, two kegs of wine, 5000 empty bottles and 400 empty jars which had been seized as evidence at numerous places. Besides the destruction of these liquors, 250 gallons of moonshine were shipped to Boston via truck, where it will be redistilled and sold as alcohol for medicinal purposes. The empty bottles will be sold to a local junk dealer.

TELLS OF DELAY IN STREET WORK

Supt. Doherty Says Department is Being Held Up On Several Jobs

Lack of Materials and Inability of Others to Help Are Chief Causes

Work contemplated by the street department in many sections of the city has been held up by the inability of certain concerns to deliver materials and the inability of the department to have the way cleared for its work in certain other localities, according to a statement given out this morning by Supt. of Streets Harry P. Doherty.

The streets superintendent wants it understood that his department is ready to do work required of it and scheduled by the city and he does not want the public to place the burden for non-completion of work upon the street department, for in his opinion that department is not to blame in any way for the failure of work promised some time ago.

Supt. Doherty cited as examples the amiesite work to be done on Broadway, the work on First street, Lakeview avenue and Kirk street. Regarding the work on Broadway, Supt. Doherty said that work is being held up there by the delay in the delivery of amiesite. The reason for the delay, according to the superintendent, is the inability of the amiesite company to ship goods.

The work on Broadway is only about half completed. Mr. Doherty exhibited a letter from the amiesite company in which it referred to a telephone conversation of a recent date in which Mr. Doherty urged the prompt delivery of material. The company explained that its inability to deliver goods was the

UNIONISTS TO MEET THURSDAY

Political Crisis Expected to Be Brought to Head at Coming Meeting

Speculation Busy as to What Will Follow Meeting's Decision

LONDON, Oct. 17. (By the Associated Press.)—The meeting of unionists called for Thursday at the Carlton club will be of great importance, as it is almost certain to bring the political crisis to a head. Until its decision, whether to break up the coalition or stand by Prime Minister Lloyd George, is known, the situation is not expected to develop materially in any direction.

The attendance at the meeting is to be confined to the unionist members of the house of commons and the unionist peers who are members of the government. Thus it will not be representative of the entire party.

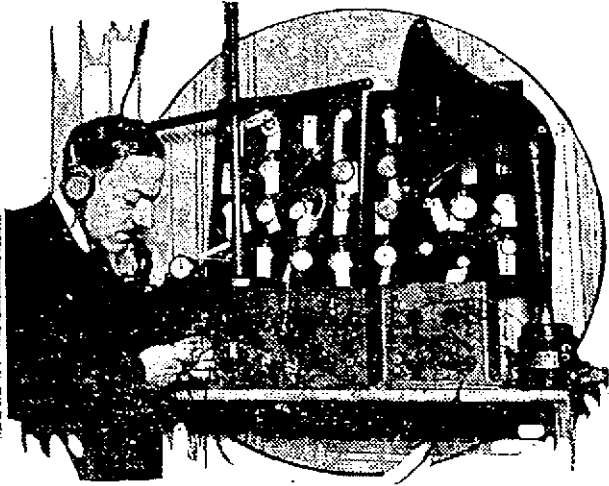

Accordingly, it is declared, Mr. Chamberlain is not answerable to the party as a whole and only feels called upon to explain or defend his declared faith in the premier to the commoners and his ministerial colleagues.

Speculation is busy as to what will follow the meeting's decision, whichever way it goes. Some observers suppose that, if Mr. Chamberlain gets his vote of confidence, Lloyd George will take advantage of this encouragement to dissolve parliament and arrange an immediate election.

Whatever happens accentuation of the existing cleavage in the unionist party is foreseen, leading, perhaps to the formation of a new party consisting of the supporters of the coalition in both of the present parties.

Set Your Watch by Radio

SIMON RIMLER, NEW YORK JEWELER, SETS HIS WATCHES BY RADIO

BY N. E. A. SERVICE
NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Get the correct time by radio.
If you have no receiving set, to tune in on Arlington, go to a jeweler. More likely he will have a set alongside his worktable.
For this is the latest adaptation made to the watchmaker's art. He no longer depends on telegraphic notice of the accurate time. The radio is even more accurate.
Heretofore the great electrical clock at Washington has been sending its clicks off to the rest of the country by telegraph. Telegraph still keeps most jeweler's clocks in conformity with the master clock in Washington. But radio is beginning to supplant it.
Broadcasting
Already some half dozen jeweler firms have received licenses to conduct broadcasting stations. An important part of the broadcasting is the dissemination of the accurate time after its reception by radio from the master station at Arlington.

Other jewelers have had radio sets installed in their shops. Twice a day they receive official time signals from Arlington, and they set their clocks and watches by these signals.
In Germany, radio in connection with this business has gone even further. One of its firms has applied for a patent on a clock which can be corrected, set and wound by radio. Once the clock is started and it is "tuned in" by radio, there is no more bother or worry for the owner.

Alarm Clock
A Frenchman, who is both radio enthusiast and watchmaker, has succeeded in constructing a radio alarm clock. According to the report from France, he uses a receiving apparatus tuned to respond only to a call consisting of certain letters sent at a certain speed.

When the proper combination of dots and dashes is received, the last signal operates a relay that closes a circuit and rings the alarm.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES TO BENEFIT BY HOLIDAYS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Postal employees, long compelled to stay on their feet while their fellow-townsmen celebrated a local or state holiday, will be given the opportunity hereafter to share in the festivities under the provisions of an order issued yesterday by Postmaster General Work. The sweeping order instructs all postmasters to release many workers as conditions permit on occasions when local or state holidays result in a virtual suspension of business in the community.
The postmaster general, in a statement, said the order was unprecedented but that, while extending to the employees more liberties than they heretofore have enjoyed, it pointed to maintain the same standard of service for the country without causing all the workers to remain at their duties. He urged postmasters in releasing the employees to distribute the holiday privilege equitably.

Livestock Burned

impossible to save them. The cows which are housed in the lean-to adjoining the tool shed had been turned out to pasture but a half hour previous and the horses had gone to town.
The school owns a hose reel and this was immediately pressed into service. The fuel that most of the boys were scattered about the engine, working, made it impossible to organize a fire-fighting force of much strength. The hose from the reel was a bit short and it all in extinguishing the blaze was all but lost.

In the meantime the matron in the main office had been notified and she telephoned the North Chelmsford and Lowell fire departments. Both departments made quick runs but when they reached the school the tool shed, lean-to and the oil of the barn were all ablaze.

Nine Pieces on Scene
An alarm was turned in from box 513 a few minutes after their arrival which brought additional pieces of apparatus. In all nine pieces were on the scene to combat the fire. It was found that it would be useless to attempt to save the tool shed or lean-to as the flames had made such headway that the walls were already falling in. The firemen directed their attention to saving the oil and main horse barn.

While the oil was badly gutted, the main barn was saved, although the fire reached some parts of it adjacent to the oil. It was necessary to pour great quantities of water into the barn and on to the roof to keep this structure from burning and this fact augmented the damage.

The fire fighters were handicapped from the fact that five tons of No. 8 hay were stored in the oil and barn from which arose a heavy black cloud of smoke. This hay, valued at about $150, was destroyed. That portion saved from the actual fire was rendered useless for feeding purposes by water and smoke. The roof of the stable had to be hatched in many places to get to the fire which had traveled by means of embers to the top of the structure.

Cause Undetermined

It was impossible to determine the cause of the fire. It has been the custom each year to collect leaves and store them under and in the rear of the tool shed. They are used for bedding purposes in the fall and winter. The season's supply had been about stored up and the recent warm weather had dried them so that they burned like tinder.

The tool shed contained hundreds of shovels, hoes, hay forks and other farming implements. There was no cellar to the lean-to, but the barn contained a large one in which wagons, plows and other tools were stored. While it was possible to pull out many of the wagons nearest the door, there were some that could not be reached owing to the nearness of the blaze and the intense heat made by the burning leaves and hay.

The fire gave the firemen a stubborn battle but after an hour's work it was well under control. When the tool shed and lean-to collapsed the task of the firemen was made easier for they were then able to surround the barn from all four sides, a fact which was impossible as long as the lean-to burned.

First Fire in Years

It is a number of years since a fire of any consequence has destroyed property at the school. Not since Supt.

Hoyt has taken charge of the institution, 15 years ago, has the place been visited by fire. A short while before that a fire destroyed the bake shop. Supt. Hoyt expressed appreciation at the manner in which the companies worked to save the barn and their ready and prompt response to the alarm possibly prevented a fire of larger proportions. While there is not another building in the exact vicinity of the barn, there are several wooden buildings on the grounds that might have caught fire from flying embers had the companies not arrived when they did and subdued the blaze.

Rival Mothers of "Kidnapped" Boy In Favor of Blood Test

"BOY OF MYSTERY" AND MRS. SMITH

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—While two women, both claiming to be his mother, vehemently asserting their love for him and desire to make his future bright, are preparing to battle for his possession through the use of the latest science of identification—the blood test—a sad, wide-eyed, and much puzzled little boy known as "Robert Ernest Smith" is without a home—a charge of charity. Meanwhile a justice in the district court at Taunton is preparing to pass on the case in which precedent dates back 3000 years to Solomon's reign in the Kingdom of Israel.

The boy of mystery is the little chap who was discovered on a farm in LaGrange, Me., last week by Mrs. Clarence E. Smith of Dighton. She brought him from Maine, believing he was her son who was stolen in 1919. Mrs. Eugene Choquette, wife of a wanderer, held for kidnapping the boy, also claims to be his mother.

Judge Frederick E. Austin of the First Bristol district court, at Taunton, yesterday, presided at the first session of a legal battle that threatens to outlive the famous "Dakota Dan" and "Presto Dan" litigation that established history in Hay State courts. In the case of the boy of mystery the heart interest is greater—there is no fortune at stake—simply mother love. Each woman declared publicly yesterday that the 70 pounds of boyish humanity, who plays the stellar role in this great drama from life, is her first born babe.

Agrees to Blood Test

Mrs. Clarence E. Smith of Dighton, says she will never stop while any human effort may avail that will give her custody of the boy she believes to be the one stolen from her on April 13.

"I will agree to a blood test, to anything that science may have discovered, to any discomfort or expense to win my baby back. I have suffered the torments of the damned since he was stolen. I can suffer more and I will," said Mrs. Smith yesterday.

"The boy is mine," declared Mrs. Choquette, wife of the wanderer arrested and held for kidnapping the boy, who in the warrant is called "Russell Everett Smith."

"He was born without a name, that's true. I was 15 when my darling was born. His father ran away and joined the army under an assumed name. I was sent to the state infirmary at Tewksbury. I have married a good man. He didn't steal the boy."

Famous Old Recipe for Cough Syrup

Easily and cheaply made at home, but it beats them all for quick results.

Thousands of housewives have found that they can save two-thirds of the money usually spent for cough preparations, by using the well-known old recipe for making cough syrup at home. It is simple and cheap but it has a powerful effect on the membranes. Avoid disappointment by asking your druggist for "24 ounces of Pinex" with full directions and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded.

DIES OF BULLET WOUNDS PLOT TO OVERTHROW U. S. GOVERNMENT CHARGED

New York Broker Shot by Woman—Latter Then Attempted to End Life

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Oscar M. Martelliere, real estate and insurance broker, who was shot five times by Mrs. Pauline Saludes, a diminutive French woman, late yesterday, died early today in the Beekman Street hospital. The shooting occurred in Martelliere's downtown office and was witnessed by his stenographer, Miss Gertrude Thompson.

Mrs. Saludes, who made unsuccessful efforts to end her own life by jumping from the window of a lawyer's office, where she hurriedly fled after shooting Martelliere, is under arrest.

Martelliere's widow told police that Mrs. Saludes told her several days ago that she loved Martelliere and that he had promised to marry her if he could get a divorce. Mrs. Martelliere said she informed Mrs. Saludes she would not stand in her way, and asked her "Are you sure he will marry you?" Mrs. Saludes replied Mrs. Martelliere said: "Well if he doesn't something terrible will happen to him."

Millions Belong to Legion

Legion regarded the interests of the disabled war veterans as its primary responsibility still ringing in their ears. World war veterans began the second day's session of their convention with indications that the rehabilitation question again would be the chief topic under discussion.

In this connection, the legionnaires were considering the bulletin issued to all post commanders by Lemuel Belles, national adjutant, advising them that millions of dollars collected during the war for the benefit of soldiers and sailors actually belong to the American Legion. The national adjutant advised the commanders to take proper steps to secure all war chest collections.

After the business sessions today, the veterans will turn to social and athletic events planned for their amusement. Last night hundreds of "buddies" were regaled and even through the early morning hours details of battles were recounted.

Landis Carried Through Streets

Kenesaw Mountain Landis was paraded through the crowded streets on the shoulders of the leaders of an unorganized procession of more than 5000 veterans. When the veterans had returned him to the crowded lobby, Mr. Landis was called on for a speech.

"Boys," he said, "I'll never miss another Legion convention as long as I live. My supper is waiting for you—know how far I'll go for you—gangway."

The veterans then shouldered Hiram MacNider, retiring national commander, and marched with him through the streets in the same manner.

ALASKA ONCE A TROPICAL REGION

SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 17.—That Alaska once was a tropical region is said to be indicated by a bone three feet long weighing 50 pounds brought here by P. A. Swift, an old time mining man to be presented to the University of Washington. Swift found the bone in the Yukon-Koyukuk river, 60 miles north of Bettles, Alaska, within the Arctic Circle. It was 25 feet deep in gravel and came to light in hydraulic mining operations. It is believed to be part of the skeleton of a mastodon.

The Kathimerini accuses the original sponsors of the republic being counter revolutionaries, pointing out that the leaders of the movement which resulted in the overthrow of King Constantine decided to maintain the monarchistic regime.

Venezuela Retires

LONDON, Oct. 17.—(By the Associated Press) Premier Venizelos of Greece declined today to discuss the report from Athens that a republican movement is on foot in Greece with the object of making Venizelos president, but he declared he was irrevocably determined to retire to private life as soon as the Turkish peace treaty was signed.

"I decided at the time of the election two years ago, not to return to politics," Venizelos said. "In the present instance I thought it my duty to undertake a foreign mission for the Greek government in an attempt to save the debris and after the Turkish treaty to retire to private life. This decision is absolute."

The reports regarding the republican movement, however, caused no expressions of surprise in some of the influential Greek circles here. In fact the establishment of a republic was quite possible.

result of an embargo the government has placed on all open cars with sideboards of three feet or more. The concern asserted that it had the amiesite ready for shipment but that it could not obtain a car now and then it was stated that the situation was clearing somewhat and it was thought cars would be available within a short while.

Superintendent Doherty said that he had been battling with the company for a month now for shipments. He said that during last week he was able to get four cars of amiesite while this week had produced but two cars. Previous to this he explained that for the three weeks prior to last week, he was able to get only a small quantity, but that he could use about 100 tons per day at the present time. It seems that some of the cars which shipped now are small flat cars which contain only about 40 tons of the road building material while an ordinary car will carry about 60 tons. The superintendent averred that it was most necessary to obtain the amiesite while the warm weather continued as it could be handled much better now than it could be when the frost gets into the ground.

Lack of Amiesite

The lack of amiesite is not the only thing that brings wrinkles to the forehead of the streets department here. Its claims that crushed stone is also very scarce on the market. All available supply in this locality has been used and it has been necessary to send the city's trucks to Winchester, Woburn and other places to get stone. A certain amount is being turned out at the city's ledge but the demand far exceeds the supply. The lack of crushed stone is explained by the fact that there is much building going on and that people are attempting to push the work before the winter sets in. An order has been placed for a large amount of crushed gravel and this will be used in the construction work although none of it will be used for surfacing.

Another matter pointed out by Supt. Doherty, is the delay on First street. He says there are some houses there that should have been moved long ago to allow the street department a chance to get in and do some work. It is planned to widen the street by at least seven feet and put in a 10-foot sidewalk. He says that this is impossible.

Summing up the entire proposition

Supt. Doherty said that the street department would function and was ready to function providing that it got a little co-operation from other sources.

TURK GUNBOAT SEIZES GREEK STEAMER

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 17 (By the Associated Press).—A Turkish gunboat in the Black sea has captured the Greek steamer Ouzania, of 2500 tons, carrying a cargo of wood from Constantia to Constantinople. The steamer was stopped about 10 miles and boarded by a Turkish prize crew. She was towed to Heraclea and the captain and crew were declared prisoners of war. This capture, announced today, marks the first appearance since last March of the Kemalists navy, which consists of two obsolete Turkish gunboats and one torpedo boat destroyer of an old type purchased from Russia.

Blames Railway Company

Regarding Lakeview avenue, the superintendent said that work there had also been held up owing to the fact that the railway company did not live up to an agreement made earlier in the summer. He said that the company promised to turn over Lakeview avenue the week after Labor day but this had not been done until last week. He said that the railway company did not wish to disturb its tracks leading to Lakeview park until after Labor day, but even when that day had passed the street was not placed at the disposal of the department.

The work on the Anne street parkway is being done by the department. Here the superintendent said that the department did not decide to do the Kirk street work until recently and that it was thrust on the department at the last minute.

Summing up the entire proposition Supt. Doherty said that the street department would function and was ready to function providing that it got a little co-operation from other sources.

VILLAGE IMPROVEMENTS TO BE DISCUSSED

Tonight is the night for the most important annual business meeting ever held by the Chelmsford Village Improvement Association. Notwithstanding a counter-attraction of no mean order of merit—the annual harvest supper of the Unitarian society, which is to be served at 6.30 o'clock, but not in any way interfering with the association meeting to start at 8 p. m. in the town hall—interior to Chelmsford Centre and the outlying villages in the improvement association's annual rally, will not be shadowed.

Urgent calls went out yesterday by postal card notification to all members and friends of the association to endeavor to attend tonight's business meeting of this band of energetic men and women citizens of Chelmsford and not forget the hour. For tonight's meeting is guaranteed to be momentous enough to interest every citizen of the old town who has the civic welfare and physical appearance of the hamlet at heart.

More than 75 cards have been mailed to the association rank and file by Mrs. Edith A. Homenway, active secretary of the association.

There is much to do tonight besides electing new officers for the coming year. Various town improvements are being discussed with avidity by the citizens who constitute a part of the organization that has been such an invigorating force in the Chelmsford community for so long. Criticisms of certain town excores will come, of course. There will also be a discussion of lively interest. It is predicted, when the suggestion recently made about illuminating the town clock in the Unitarian church belfry comes up for debate.

JOHN DOE CONVICTED AND SENT TO PRISON

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Oct. 17.—Probably for the first time in the history of courts, John Doe has been convicted and sent to prison. In a case tried here yesterday, the defendant was a deaf and dumb negro, unable to tell or write his name, and as the court entry was "John Doe, alias," he was sentenced to eight months in jail on a charge of putting his arms around a white woman. Witnesses testified that he was under the influence of a drug at the time of the act.

The bout opened the sports program of the American Legion convention. (Lion Littleton weighed 161½ pounds; Feltner 160.)

HINES SPEAKS ON R. R. PROBLEM

Former Director-General
Points Out New Opportunities for Ingenuity

Present Difficulties Constitute
Only a Temporary Emergency Condition

Annual Meeting of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—Walker D. Hines, former director-general of railroads, pointed out new opportunities for ingenuity and initiative in railroad operation in an address at the annual meeting of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts.

The present difficulties in railroad service, he said, constituted only a temporary emergency condition, and he addressed himself more to consideration of the railroad problem in its permanent aspect. As to the labor situation, Mr. Hines said that while standardization of wages, agreement on working conditions and the decision of the labor board have restricted the initiative of the railroads yet there was still opportunity to find new ways to make progress.

These conditions, he added, while tending to limit railroad initiative in the direction of independent action on the part of any one railroad, yet "necessarily call for even greater initiative and ingenuity in order to improve existing conditions and adjust railroad practice and labor conditions to each other."

"My observation on these matters has led me to believe that in the past the railroad managements have concentrated their attention very largely upon efficiency in the movements of trains over their roads and have not given corresponding amount of attention to the efficiency of labor in handling cars in the terminals or to the efficiency of labor in the maintenance of equipment, and the efficiency of labor in maintaining the cars and locomotives. Yet only about 35 per cent. of operating expenses relate to road movement of trains and about 65 per cent. of operating expenses relate to operation in terminals and maintenance of equipment."

It is in the terminal work and in the maintenance work that the increased labor cost proves most burdensome. I cannot avoid the belief that great opportunities still exist for important improvements in the use of terminal labor force or maintenance labor.

"But there remains an even greater field for effort and initiative which in my opinion has never been worked by railroad managements like it ought to have been and like it must be in the future, and that is the field of the relationship between the management and the employees. At the present time I think many railroad managements are giving serious attention to this great problem."

"I believe a sincere spirit of desire to promote the welfare of the employees and a settled policy to obtain through regular conferences, the views of the employees as to what their welfare requires and to explain to the employees the necessities of the management, will have a progressively beneficial effect upon the efficiency of railroad labor. But the movement shall find its source in a genuine desire to equalize the needs of the employees, to try to understand and appeal to his point of view, and to promote his welfare as an integral part of the transportation organization."

"I wish to suggest in addition, that even with respect to the gross earnings of operating roadways, by means of means clear that initiative at an end. Of course, practically without exception, the rates are fixed by public authority, but there still remains to the railroad management the question of studying the traffic and seeing how it can be further developed."

"If it is a fact that all New England railroads are actually losing money in performing commutation service, it is a situation which the public owes to itself to take the initiative to correct because it is the public which will suffer from the error."

Mr. Hines said he understood that motor trucks were making very serious inroads on railroad traffic, adding that it is a fact that the motor trucks do not pay for the damage they do the public highways, "the public certainly ought to take the initiative to correct this situation by imposing proper taxes on the motor trucks. The public ought not to subsidize them with the result of helping to break down the steam railroad system which is essential to the public welfare."

President Charles H. Guy Speaks
Unless the present trend of unscientific economic reasoning is arrested and sane and logical analysis substituted therefor, it is inevitable that the industrial life of this nation will be threatened with extinction, Charles H. Guy, president of the Associated Industries, said in his annual address.

"So distinguished a personage as the present secretary of labor has repeatedly asserted during the past year that high wages make for prosperity by reason of the greater purchasing power thereby created and this theory has been eagerly accepted by labor spokesmen and supporters everywhere as a perfectly obvious conclusion."

"The recent Labor day message of the Federated Council of Churches after expressing sympathy with the efforts of organized labor for higher wages and better working conditions pointed out the fact that the present insufficient income in the aggregate in this country to permit the payment of a living wage to every worker, but placed a burden upon the shoulders of industrial management to see to it that a sufficient additional sum was produced."

"There can be little wonder at the present social unrest of the masses when they are being continually encouraged by individuals of prominence in all walks of life to believe that the standards of living to which they aspire are being denied them by unjust, selfish and dishonest employers who seek to profit at their expense. As a consequence of this widespread belief among employees in industry, there has resulted a moral breakdown on the part of labor which in turn has aggravated a serious situation through further reduction in the production of wealth which must always be the basis of all prosperity and the final measure of our attainable living standards.

"Although the people of this country must now depend upon the earnings of industry for their living, they do not seem to realize that the assessment of excessive taxation upon business enterprise must serve to deplete those earnings to an extent which is bound to be reflected in higher prices of commodities, lower wages for labor or both."

Wentworth, Stewart of Washington, D. C., speaking on "Industry and the Public Weal," said:

"We have reached that point in industrial planning where we cannot hope to obtain peace and establish prosperity by attempted adjustments between capital and labor, unless we shall also understand as operators and equally as laborers that the general public is concerned with our strike and our settlements. Education is the hope of the successful pursuit of such a course."

Rival Mothers of Kidnapped Boy

of his head when he beheld the man charged with his kidnapping and whom he had learned to call "daddy."

"Who is this man?" an officer asked the boy as he pointed at Choquette sitting six feet away.

"He had hung his head, his lips quivered. He stole furtive glances at the sun-bronzed ex-cow puncher and faltering said, 'He's my old daddy.'"

"Did I buy you iced cream?" asked Choquette. "Yes," sighed the boy, "but no more now."

"Did I buy you clothes and shoes?" asked the prisoner. "No those shoes," parried the lad.

"What's your mother's name?" queried Choquette.

"Gerty," said the child (that is Mrs. Choquette's given name).

"Thus the dialogue continued. The man assumed an 'I told you so' attitude. The child seemed fearful of either Choquette or the presence of so many men. The lad admitted that he would go back to live with Choquette 'if I can take my new bicycle.'"

Mrs. Smith of Dighton, who accompanied the boy to the courthouse, was then brought in. She faced the man she charges kidnapping her child in 1919. Each was quiet, took a long searching gaze at each other.

Mrs. Smith accused him of leaving the child at the Lancaster farm in Maine after the child had been beaten and interceded for by Palmer Lancaster.

"I never beat the child," said the prisoner, "ask himself."

It was hard to get the boy to answer. He stared as though spell-bound at Choquette. He turned his eyes then on Mrs. Smith. He was ready to cry when an officer caught his attention.

"Did this man whip you?" "He will whip me if I say he whipped me," the youngster came back. He was assured that was impossible.

Whipped When Naughty
The boy with sagacity beyond his disputed years and with manifest desire to please Choquette, replied by wishing the beatings on Mrs. Choquette, who was not present. He said: "My mother pulled my ears and he whipped me when I was naughty and when I didn't have lots of toys."

Choquette was accused of making the boy ride beneath the seat of the wagon. The child denied his story of last week when he said it was so. He compromised and said he was only partly beneath the seat, but sometimes was made to run alongside the horse.

Mrs. Smith glared at Choquette. He laughed and said the running was exercise, as he didn't want the lad to get cramped.

"I don't care what you say. You told lies in LaGrange when you left the boy there. I am positively sure he is my boy. I am going to have him and take him home," Mrs. Smith declared.

"You're not; he's coming back to his own mother, my wife."

Officers interceded. It was finally arranged by the consent of Choquette and Mrs. Smith that the boy should be taken care of until next Monday by the Massachusetts Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children at their temporary home at 43 Mt. Vernon street, Boston. He was brought to this city by John F. Hallahan of Taunton.

Then Mrs. Choquette arrived from Wrentham, where she had spent the night as a guest of Constable S. H. Snow. She offered comfort to her husband and announced to assembled reporters that the child was hers and she was about to prove it. Mrs. Choquette and Mrs. Smith did not meet.

Mrs. Choquette left shortly for Boston to prove her ownership of the child. Mrs. Smith departed for her home in Dighton. Here her youngest child, Helen, three years old, wept when she heard her "lost brother" was used as an identification mark by both women. Says Mrs. Smith: "My Russell received that scar when he fell against a bed while trying to walk."

"The scar is the result of my hitting my Robert on the forehead when he misbehaved one day. I was switching his legs and he stopped suddenly and was struck on the head," says Mrs. Choquette.

Mrs. Smith claims the boy is the illegitimate son of her husband, John F. Smith. Mrs. Choquette claims he resembles the Usbridge man, who, she charges, is the father of the boy.

SCHWAB TELLS HOW TO SUCCEED IN BUSINESS

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—One thousand strong, students thronged the Harvard Union last evening to hear Charles M. Schwab tell how to succeed in business.

The steel magnate told them to be democratic in their associations. By this he did not mean that they should "condescend" to be seen with people not educated as they; he wanted them to be "democratic in spirit." He mentioned Judge Gary and John D. Rockefeller as embodiments of the democratic spirit.

He added good nature as an essential of success and in amplification of this urged that "no man is worth anything if he is not susceptible to the approval of his fellow men." "Blustering anger," he said, gets the business man nowhere. He added absolute integrity and loyalty as other essentials of success.

"By that I do not necessarily mean money success," he said. "Money isn't everything. What good is a whole lot of money to a man of my age?" "The real success comes with the satisfaction of successfully doing, with doing things better than anybody else, and if you wish to rise above the average man, you must do something not done by the average man; you must think."

"I once told this to a group of employees and went away wondering whether they had taken me seriously. Some time later a young man came to see me. 'After I heard your talk,' he said, 'I did some puzzling as to how I might think of something which had not been thought of before. I am a stenographer. I discovered that you spent an hour going to and from your home every day. In that hour you are in your automobile. So I have learned to take down shorthand while riding in an automobile. Will you give me a job?" "That young man is now my secretary. He has every promise of being one of the great men of American business. If you wish to succeed, do different things, things that have not been done before; do things better than other people."

"Do not be afraid to borrow money if you are ready to back your project with all your personal energy. Mr. Carnegie has said that money borrowed at 6 and 8 per cent. is worth borrowing on the conditions of American industry. 'I am convinced that the United States will lead the world in industry and business within the present generation. We are the workshop of the world. I envy you; you have the chance of making the industrial history—and by that I mean the real history—of the next 50 years.'

The audience was as interesting as the speech. Almost an hour before 8, Harvard students began to wander into the Union. Twenty minutes before the opening, every seat was filled. When Mr. Schwab began to speak, students had dragged chairs into the aisles, filled the balcony and overflowed to such an extent that there were men leaning through the second floor windows which look in on the living room where the speech was made. The assembly was football mass meeting size.

Before the address Mr. Schwab was guest of honor at a dinner at the Union, at which Pres. Lowell and Dean Donham of the Business school were present. Dean Donham introduced the steel magnate as "this marvelous salesman" and Mr. Schwab then took the floor, preferring not to speak from the platform.

UNDERTAKER HEALEY BACK FROM OHIO

Professional standards and ideals and a vision of service ahead of profits, was the compelling message of the convention of the National Selected Morticians at Columbus, Ohio, from which Mr. George W. Healey of this city has just returned.

The National Selected Morticians is the highest type organization to which funeral directors are eligible, membership in which is confined to a single individual in every city, and these by invitation only.

Leading authorities in many lines addressed the convention, according to Mr. Healey, but almost every one of them commended the stand of a professional aim on the part of the morticians. Problems of legislation, of credit, of business development, were all discussed by nationally known experts. It was made clear, too, said Mr. Healey, that if we hope to be leaders in our profession, we have a moral obligation to assist others to higher standards of professional skill and service to humanity.

It is recognized broadly that there are more men endeavoring to make a living by caring for the dead than the requirements of the American people justify, and that in that group there are some who do not appreciate their obligations to society, and that the very nature of their contact with their clientele is such that any shortcomings of an individual tend to discredit the entire group.

The convention took action, recommending legislation in favor of a proper mortuary in Washington, D. C., which at present is without suitable accommodation, approved the effort which is being made in some cities to exclude mortuary establishments from residential districts, and recommended to the municipalities of the country that some legislation be devised for automobiles which are a part of the funeral procession.

PRINCETON-CHICAGO GAME
CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Further application for tickets for the Princeton-Chicago football game here Oct. 28 will not be considered. It was announced today. The University of Chicago football ticket office has been swamped with orders and no seats are left to offer at public sale.

Ticket scalpers are receiving attention from the authorities. Edward O'Brien, a college student, was fined $50 for scalping tickets for last Saturday's Chicago-Northwestern game, and two professional speculators have been arrested.

DO YOU COUGH? ARE YOU WEAK?

When You Get Run Down, Have a Cough, or After a Severe Cold—You Should Take This Advice

Schenectady, N. Y.—"Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has been very beneficial to me and gave me help when I was greatly in need of it, and I am glad to recommend it that others may receive help as I did. I caught a severe cold which affected my bronchial tubes and left me with a chronic cough. I became weak and all run-down in health. I saw Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery advertised and decided to give it a trial. The results were very gratifying to me. It built me right up in health and strength and relieved me of all this condition."

ITCHING ECZEMA DRIED RIGHT UP WITH SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Sulphur. Says a noted skin specialist, "Because of its germ-destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth."

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and discomfort. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Rowles' Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.—Adv.

Hot Water—or Hot Steam?

TACO WHETHER you get hot water or hot steam from your faucet depends on how your domestic water is heated.

The old-fashioned pipe coil in the fire pot of your furnace or boiler cannot be regulated. When the fire is low the water is just warm; when the fire is high, the water is too hot and turns to steam.

TACO Water Heater is designed to do what the pipe coil fails to do. Attached to the outside of your heating plant, it uses the boiling water or live steam to heat your domestic water. It cannot over-heat; it eliminates all worry.

If you depend upon a pipe coil for your hot water, ask your nearest Plumber or Heating Contractor for an estimate for a TACO Water Heater installed. It is designed for any steam or vapor heating plant.

COL. GASTON VS. LODGE

Col. William A. Gaston in opening his speaking tour at Fitchburg on Saturday evening, made one of the best speeches yet heard on any platform since the campaign opened. He dealt almost entirely with the injustice done to the port of Boston and thereby to Massachusetts by the great railroads in fixing lower freight rates from the west to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Galveston than to Boston. He pointed out that this has left the port of Boston practically idle, despite the fact that it is fitted by nature and every port equipment to handle a very large volume of business. The same influences perhaps that fixed the railroad differential against Boston, arranged that the cost of transportation to Europe would be the same from New York, Philadelphia and Galveston as from Boston, although Boston is much nearer to Europe than any of these ports.

It was certainly a sad tale that Col. Gaston related in his speech relative to the manner in which the commerce of Boston had been throttled by insidious influences while Senator Lodge held an influential position in congress and yet failed to check this movement that has ruined the commerce of Boston and largely also of New England. Mr. Lodge was depicted as a very busy man and in reality a national institution, but Col. Gaston put the plain blunt question as to what he has done for Massachusetts. The answer is found in the conditions of New England today under discrimination that threatens her industrial activity and gives other parts of the country a decided advantage in competition. Mr. Gaston pointed out that it was largely through the genius and enterprise of New England men that the industries and the commerce of other parts of the country were built up; but now New England seems to be forgotten. Her port lies unused although one of the finest in the world and our railroads are going to ruin. If such a state of affairs is to continue, he said it portends great injury to our industries, loss of business and loss of employment for thousands of our wage earners all over the states. Colonel Gaston pointed out that had Senator Lodge done his duty to Massachusetts he would have been hammering at the doors of the Interstate Commerce commission and if he failed to secure justice there, he should have taken the matter to congress and there thundered with his eloquence in behalf of justice for New England. Mr. Lodge has done none of these things and for that reason Mr. Gaston allowed that it was high time to make a change. He said Massachusetts wants a senator who will endeavor to obtain from the Interstate Commerce commission, from congress, from the supreme court or from the president what belongs to Massachusetts and her citizens. That would be his special aim, he said. If elected, as he confidently hoped to be, Colonel Gaston gave very convincing reasons as to why he should be elected to take the place of the senator.

DIRECT PRIMARIES AGAIN

The direct primary system of nominations, which played a prominent part in the pre-convention campaign of the republican party in Idaho, is expected to be one of the hardest fought issues in the contests at the November election in that state. The issue involves the two principal parties in the progressive party, comprising the farmer-labor element. United States Senator Borah has taken a stand in favor of abandoning the present state convention system of nominations in Idaho for a direct state primary. Although he had the support in this position of the delegation from one county, in which Boise is located, the republican state convention refused to accept his leadership and declared for the present system of state conventions, preceded by county primaries, at which candidates for county officers and delegates to the county conventions are selected. The county conventions in turn select delegates to the state convention.

The republican convention called for an amendment of the present system to require the voter to declare his party affiliation when he votes at the primaries.

The democratic and progressive parties in their state platforms declared for the abandonment of the convention system and a return to the state primaries. The battle in Idaho will be watched with interest by leaders in other states of the Union, who have ideas of their own about the direct primary system.

MUSICALLY UNCIVILIZED

Evidently different men have very different ideas of barbarism and savagery. Here, for instance, is Prof. Peter W. Dinkels of the University of Wisconsin, who says that so far as instrumental music is concerned, we are in a rather uncivilized state. Most people on reading this statement would at once assume that he refers to jazz; but strange to say, he thinks that jazz has a rhythm, vitality and verve that are real contributions to music and that the trouble with jazz usually is the players rather than the jazz itself. Strange that a critic so ready to make a sweeping charge against the musical appreciation of the American people, should approve what he regarded as a burlesque on real music. It might be well for this professor to be more specific and explain what he means by the music of civilization.

Real civilization is spiritual rather than material. In regard to music, it is a matter of high accomplishment and artistic appreciation. If our dislike of jazz is the only reason why this professor thinks us uncivilized, most people of refinement will refuse to accept his idea of what constitutes civilization or even musical culture.

THE DOCTOR IN POLITICS

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, health commissioner of New York city, democratic candidate for the United States senate, is a good physician and his friends believe that he would make a first-class senator. There are few graduates of medicine in congress at the present time. Senator Frances of Maryland, a republican, is the only physician at present in that body. Another doctor in the senate would do no harm, as Brother Hennessey of the Globe political reporting staff says. At the present time the lawyers are in the majority in the upper branch of congress.

It will be remembered, perhaps, that for years New Hampshire sent to the senate Dr. Jacob H. Gallinger of Concord, a country doctor, who won a high place as a political leader in Washington. Physicians are by no means rare in American politics. Postmaster General Hubert Work practised medicine for many years out in Colorado.

INSURING EMPLOYEES

The Eastern Massachusetts railroad is to be congratulated upon the adoption of a system of insurance for its employees after a stated period of service. Insurance comes high nowadays and the fact that an employee is insured for a sum ranging as high as $2500 is certainly worth considering. It will cause the men to have a greater interest in the work of the company, and to hesitate before going on strike or leaving the service. We believe that such action if copied by other companies, will go far toward the solution of the labor problems that cause conflicts between employers and their help, resulting very often in enforced idleness and serious loss and injury to all concerned. By this means the company will have a more secure hold on the experienced men which will be one means of lessening the number of accidents for which heavy damages have to be paid.

L. H. S. ATHLETICS

Those who have charge of high school athletics should devise ways and means for improving the football teams that have been playing this season. It may be, that the men in charge have not as good material as the high schools of other cities furnish. It may be also that the rules regarding the conditions on which students may enter the football teams are more strict than those of some other schools. We believe this is undoubtedly the case as some schools, we understand, sacrifice scholarship to success on the gridiron. We believe Lowell can furnish as good material for a football team as most other cities if the proper methods be adopted and if the team gets the right kind of backing, which it should get, so long as it is fitted to meet the teams of other cities.

GERMAN INDEMNITY

French statistics, recently circulated, show that Germany since the end of the war has paid only $400,000,000 cash indemnity, or $1.61 a year for each German. Lang German consul in New York city, says the figure should be $22,000,000 instead of $400,000,000. That would make the cash indemnity payments $2.10 a year, instead of $1.61, for each German. Incidentally, Lang claims that Germany has paid about $9,523,000,000 total indemnity, to date, including value of lost territory and other property surrendered. It is not clear how he appraises the colonies taken from Germany.

PARENTS TO BLAME

Teeth should be put in laws making parents responsible for wrong conduct of their children. So urges District Attorney O'Brien, addressing the Jewish B'nai B'rith association of Boston. As emphasized previously, something eventually will have to be done along this line. American youth these days is the target of many hot shots. The trouble generally is with parents, not with their offspring. If the parents fail to do their duty by their children, it will not be surprising if the latter go astray. The parents should be obliged to meet their responsibility.

REGISTRATION

Only one day more after this in which to get registered for the state election. Tomorrow is the last day under the law on which registration can be conducted by the election commission. The commission has, therefore, arranged to remain in session from 12 o'clock noon till 10 p. m. to afford an opportunity to those who so desire, to get their names on the voting list. In order to avoid the rush in the evening those who can do so, should attend in the afternoon.

PEN AND SWORD

We aren't quite as peaceful as we imagine. A government report says that about 13,000 American wage earners are employed making typewriters and supplies, against 10,000 making ammunition and 6000 making firearms. Since the typewriter is the modern pen and ammunition and the gun the modern sword, the saying that "the pen is mightier than the sword" will bear checking up on its industrial side.

The railroads of the country are bringing us straight toward a coal famine, which in turn will be the strongest possible argument for government ownership of all the railroads.

If the railroads would call in the shopmen who are out on strike, they would have less trouble with disabled locomotives and stalled cars.

Will the city have to pay all the expenses incurred by Mayor Brown in the Plan B fight, which is solely a political matter?

SEEN AND HEARD

This is a small world, but there is room for more big men.

Horrors upon horrors crowds Russia. Latest one is the railroads have opened their restaurants again.

Massachusetts strikers who attacked policemen with bottles may plead they thought it was a ball game.

In the last five years forest fires have destroyed 64,500,000 square miles of timber. We will soon be out of the woods.

A Thought

To be a strong hand in the dark to another in the time of need, to be a cup of strength to a human soul in a crisis of weakness, is to know the glory of life.—Hugh Black.

Made It Easter

The amateur gardener was digging away at the weeds in his potato patch. "Makes it harder with the weeds so thick, doesn't it?" said a friend who was looking on. "No, it's easier," replied the enthusiast. "You don't have to walk so far to the next weed."

Today's Word

Today's word is dawdle. It's pronounced—with accent on the first syllable. It means—to idle, to loiter, to waste time. It comes from—old English, to doddle like a child. Companion word—dawdler. ICA used like this—"Instead of working, the workmen dawdled all day."

The Wrong Change

The lady was obviously upset. She looked at the money in her hand, and, turning to her husband, said: "Why, he's given me the wrong change. Hubby was amused. This sort of thing had happened before. 'I thought so,' he said. 'That's the way my money earned money again. Trust a woman to get fooled.' Now go back to the counter at once, Jane, and get it put right." She got the change, and when she returned he said: "Well, it is right now?" "O, quite," she answered. "I'd given me a dollar too much!"

Made Poor Man

The shadows lay thick beneath the tree, and where they were deepest a figure crouched. Suddenly he heard a sound, a light footfall on the grass. "There the dog," he whined hoarsely. "Yes," came the answer. "What you doing with that dog?" he muttered, as his burglar partner drew near. "Why," answered his companion, "there was nothing worth taking in the house, and it's had luck to come away without anything. So I pinched the watchdog and these burglar alarms!"

Pretty Good Striker

Jenkins who had gone to a general store to make a few purchases, happened to notice a large gold coin lying upon the counter, glistening with excitement. He picked it up and looked around to see that no one was watching him; he dropped it quite accidentally, of course—one of his gloves on top of the coin. Then, bending, he proceeded to pick up his glove. But the coin did not accompany it. It remained where it was. Upon the counter, he made a second attempt to get hold of it, but without the same result. As he was contemplating the wisdom of a third endeavor a clerk approached him, and said: "Good day, sir. May I be allowed to show you a little of our famous 'Biggie' glue. I believe that you are aware of its sticking powers." But Jenkins had fled.

Envy

I never knew a car could run so smoothly. I never dreamed that tires would wear so long. That engine was so noiseless and so fast. Until I heard that salesman's ardent song. From him I learned the joy of riding. With never a fear that ought will go amiss. He taught me all the beauties of Ignition. And that to own a car like his were bliss. O, may I never know a rude awakening. From the fair dreams he gave to me. Long may I revel in sweet perfection. Of that—the car I never yet have bought. —Corra S. Day in New York Sun.

MRS. CHAS. GARLAND SAILS FOR EUROPE

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—Mrs. Charles Garland, wife of the millionaire Socialist, who is living his life as he chooses on his farm at North Carter, Mass., sailed yesterday for Ilive on La France.

With her sailed her two children—Margaret, aged 2, and Peter, 6 months old—her mother, Mrs. P. W. Wrenn of Boston; her sister, Miss Margaret C. Wrenn, a nurse and a maid.

Mrs. Garland declined to make any comment on her husband's experiments with soul notes or his refusal and later acceptance of a large paternal legacy, most of which he announced would be given away "to the advantage of all." Neither would she leave her villa de luxe to pose for photographers.

Through a friend, Christian Schlott, music teacher and sculptor, she said that she has only the kindest feeling for Mr. Garland and the only reason she would not be interviewed was because she was afraid that her remarks would not be given the proper meaning.

Mrs. Schlott said that he had not seen Mrs. Garland for nearly three years, when she was a pupil taking piano lessons of him. He encountered in her here that she might be misunderstood if he talked.

With the others of her family, she will go to a small town near Paris and stay six months.

BOSTON UNIVERSITY ALUMNI

Several members of the Boston University Alumni of Lowell met last night at the home of Miss Helen Quigley at North Chelmsford and arranged a series of social events for the coming season. An entertainment followed the business session, the dramatization of Portia's speech from "The Merchant of Venice" being given by Miss Agnes Mather and "Gentle" being impersonated by Miss Helen Mullenbach. Miss Sibyl Curran, accompanied by Maxwell Cohen of the Villa and Joseph Coupe of the Plaza, gave several fine violin selections from "The Mikado." General dancing was enjoyed after the entertainment.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

Railroad officials controlling the local district of the Boston & Maine and the N. Y. N. H. & H. railroads are "fixing up" for the winter period of strenuous days and battles with the storm king. This week work was being completed on many of the long plank walks running out of the railroad station district off Middlesex st. and reaching down toward the City Court freight transfer yards. Many of the planks are unusually long and have to be shortened somewhat to fit the places where they are to be laid. A good deal of lumber has been required for the repair jobs. Many walks between the numerous main and freight track siding rails being rotted away and dangerous for railroad men's use when they travel up and down and about the great railroad transfer territory below the station.

Visited Rabbi Wolfson a few days ago to ascertain what his program is to be for the local Palestine collection fund. I found him preparing to respond to a hurry call to an important Jewish church conference in Portland, Me., the following week. He was very busy and the frequent being made by an old-time friend, who declined to tell the rabbi what it was all about. But he accepted the call just the same, and knows that he may be able to help someone, or straighten out some church matters that may need attention. This sort of an appeal is not unusual for the local rabbi to receive, and his warm hearted response is always prompt and generously extended. As he told The Man About Town yesterday: "If I can help anybody at any time, of any faith, I am glad to do so. If it is in my power, I care not what his religion is so long as he is truthful and honest and is sincerely desirous of help. That is my policy."

When Roy Parchant learned that the Cohen theatrical people could not come to Lowell a week ago, he attended the Rotarian celebration. I know he was not only disappointed for he had been "banking" upon this fine attraction, but that he would leave none of the proverbial stones unturned to get these actors up here some time before their Boston engagement ended. That is why he thought for such splendid support here, there and everywhere, good example of which is found on the Saturday tag days, when appeals for funds are always well met.

I understand the Boston & Maine "tag day" committee that went to North Billerica last Saturday night had a very successful evening, but that they were responding generously to the appeals of the strikers' committee. The sign of good will and generosity appears to go everywhere the strikers' committees travel, and the men who are fighting for a fair case ought to be thanked for such splendid support here, there and everywhere, good example of which is found on the Saturday tag days, when appeals for funds are always well met.

The Lowell members of the Middlesex North Agricultural society miss William Teal, one of the long-time members of the organization, whose home is in West Acton. Mr. Teal was an active member some years ago, but has not attended many meetings lately. He has a son, Ernest M. Teal, in Acton, who is a farmer of note and a well known apple producer as well as a good buyer. The latter would make a good member for the society's trustee board if Mr. Teal, Sr. is not able to attend further meetings. The younger Teal is prominent in county farming circles, is a good speaker and greatly interested in agricultural matters. The Man About Town has known Mr. Teal since boyhood and can vouch for his progressive ideas in farming and other branches of business.

Probation Officer Joseph Cronin drove his Ford sedan from New York to Lowell last Friday. It's some Ford with the accent on the "some" when it comes to making this kind of a record. Cronin said that his first question to me was: "Where is that Dead Horse Hill I hear so much talk of on the road between Worcester and Springfield?" Now, gentlemen, Dead Horse Hill is about as difficult to negotiate as any hill in the state. All of our official speed tests are made up this hill. Each year a race is held there and the winning car is supposed to rate quite high in the motor world. Well, to my friend Joe, I explained the position of Dead Horse Hill. Much to my surprise he replied, "Well, must have gone right up that on without noticing it. I say, 'Some Ford, Joe's got some Ford!'"

HALLOWEEN PARTY

Miss Elizabeth Donohue, chairman of the Elizabeth Legion auxiliary committee on the coming Halloween party, announced that the party would be held at the home of Mrs. J. J. Donohue, 100 Central st., on Saturday night, Oct. 21. A very encouraging report of the progress made thus far, at the meeting of the committee in Memorial hall last night, was given by Mrs. Donohue. At the meeting and besides the regular routine business transacted, it was decided that the banquet of the evening, which is to be held on Oct. 28, will be at the home of Mrs. Donohue, 100 Central st., on Saturday night, Oct. 21. The evening of the dance, Mrs. Nellie Woodhead, president of the auxiliary, and Mrs. Annie Robinson, was selected to the position of senior vice president, both to serve for the remainder of the year. Mrs. Nellie Woodhead was appointed to the past president's chair of the auxiliary. A second report on relief work was read by Mrs. Bessie McDermott.

FRIENDS HONOR MISS MARY TOBIN

A very enjoyable supper and dance was held Saturday evening, Oct. 14th, at Odd Fellows hall in Centralville in honor of Miss Mary Tobin, a popular employee in the accounting department of the Hecht mill, who is soon to become the bride of Mr. Walter McInerney. During the supper Miss Tobin was presented a handsome chest of silver with best wishes for happiness from her business associates, and although taken by surprise, she responded in a very pleasing manner. The table and hall were prettily decorated with autumn leaves and cut flowers. After the supper a very pleasing musical program was carried out by solos by Miss Rita Carolina, Mrs. Hartley, Mr. Joseph J. Higginbottom, accompanied by Miss Mary Carey at the piano. General dancing followed, which was enjoyed by all.

Much of the success of the party was due to the efforts of Miss Rita Carolina and Mrs. Jennie M. Olmstead. Mr. Robert Hetherington in the role of toastmaster could not be surpassed. The party broke up at a reasonable hour, all wishing Miss Tobin the best of good luck and success in her new life. The Lydon company catered.

NURSES SELECT OFFICERS

The last quarterly and annual meeting of the Nurses' association of St. John's hospital was held in the hospital last Saturday and officers elected for the coming year. The following were chosen: President, Miss Helen V. Fitzpatrick; Vice President, Miss Rose V. Leavelle; Treasurer, Miss Anna Quinn; and recording secretary, Miss Mary D. Woodhead. The following committee, to arrange for the banquet of the association, which is to be held on the evening of Oct. 28, was also appointed: Miss Katherine C. Kierce, chairman; Miss Catherine Sullivan, Miss Alice J. Gorman, Miss Mary Donohue and Miss Mary B. Woodhead.

MIDDLE-AGED PEOPLE

"Middle-aged people," Youth greets them with jeers, And scouts at the wisdom that goes with their years; So Youth rushes in without worry or doubt, And gets into trouble and then is pulled out By middle-aged people who long ago learned The use of the caution that youngsters have spurned.

"Middle-aged people," they're stodgy and tame, But somehow or other they're wise to the game, And though Youth imagines it's running the show, The middle-aged people are making it go. Bored of illusions, experienced, wise, The middle-aged people have pretty good eyes.

"Middle-aged People," they're lacking in pep, They "look 'ere they leap" and they watch every step, And Youth says they're slow, and I reckon they are, But speed without thought doesn't get very far, And therefore, while Youth is alert and athrob, It's middle-aged people who dope out the job!

"Middle-aged People"—they often hold back, They don't like new paths, they prefer the old track, And Youth frets and rages at order and rule, While middle-aged people just smile and keep cool, For, spite of the talk that the youngsters have hurled, The middle-aged people are running the world! ### RULES FOR USE OF OIL IN HEATERS ISSUED

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—State Fire Marshal George C. Neale yesterday conferred with deputy marshals of the Metropolitan District and, following the meeting, urged the consideration of the public to the following regulations concerning the use of oil in heaters:

"No person shall keep a stove or use oil in a building in connection with domestic oil-heating apparatus in an amount in excess of 20 gallons thereof, except in accordance with these rules and regulations, unless a permit has been obtained therefor from the state fire marshal, or the official herein designated by him to grant such permits."

Attention is called to the provision for permits. There are 14 sections of these rules, making regulations for the quality of oil for domestic oil-heating apparatus, regarding heat test; the thickness of the steel wall of tanks; the location of oil tanks; the connection between the tanks and the oil-burning apparatus; the distance of the tanks from any open fire or flame; connection with shut-off valves; prohibition of gravity flow from tank to burner; requirement of chimney with strong draft; cautious about lighting the pilot light; observance of the rules and also the directions of the manufacturers of oil-burning apparatus, and the posting of the rules and instructions near the apparatus, displayed in print.

The keeping and sale of gasoline or any other volatile inflammable liquid and oils in harbors and inland waters of the commonwealth on gasoline supply boats.

The installation and maintenance of gasoline filling station and the storage, keeping for sale and handling the gasoline and other oils in connection therewith.

The keeping, for sale, storage, manufacture, use and transporting in this commonwealth of explosives.

The construction and maintenance of, and the storage, keeping and use of gasoline in this commonwealth in connection with garages (these regulations to apply only within the Metropolitan fire prevention district).

The storage, handling and use of volatile inflammable liquid in this commonwealth in connection with the processes of dry cleaning, dry dyeing and speckling.

The manufacture, storage and keeping for sale inflammable compounds and volatile inflammable liquid in connection therewith.

These regulations will be submitted to the governor and council for approval.

LEGION DISCUSSES ARMISTICE EVE BALL

Last night's American Legion meeting was given over wholly to the discussion of the Armistice eve ball. Naturally the routine work was accomplished, but the plans for the ball took up the centre of the stage all night. From the report of committees the ball is going to be one of the biggest affairs of its kind staged in the city and may rival the K. of C. and Elk affairs to a certain degree.

A communication was read from the Roosevelt memorial committee inviting the legion to attend the memorial exercises to be held at the Auditorium on Oct. 27. It was voted to accept the invitation.

The general committee on the ball will meet again tonight in Memorial hall to discuss more plans in connection with the dance. The tickets are already printed and will be ready for distribution in down town stores within a few days.

CONFERENCE AT WOMEN'S CLUB

A departmental conference under the auspices of the state home economics department was held at the Middlesex Women's club yesterday afternoon, with representatives present from a number of clubs in the 10th district, including Billerica, Lawrence, Haverhill,

Ayer, Reading, Westford and West Newbury.

It was a gathering of great interest for housekeepers, as the subjects discussed were of vital importance in the arts of domestic science and home economics.

As Lowell was the hostess club a word of welcome was spoken by Mrs. Otis L. Humphrey, president, after which there were words of greeting from Mrs. Walter Perham, district director.

Addresses were given by Mrs. A. B. Bixby, chairman of the state department of home economics, on "The Success of the Home Maker," Miss Harriet Almsworth, on "A Knowledge of Textiles," and by Mrs. Elizabeth S. McDonald, of the Modern Textile staff, on "Practically Managed Homes." Each talk was particularly interesting and each was entirely different from the other, although bearing directly upon the main question under discussion.

IRENE CASTLE HAS BOTH EARS SHOWING

All New York stopped, turned and looked, and then looked again when Irene Castle, who comes to the Memorial Auditorium Oct. 26, returned from a summer trip to Europe with both ears showing. Shop girls screamed the news to each other. Matrons and dignified old ladies turned to stare. Even the men looked. There was Irene, stepping along daintily as ever with a jaunty little French hat on top of her bobbed curls and two tiny ears peeping out from the brim of her hat. Good, too, was the short skirt and in its place Irene wore a demure model

Miss Castle is going to wear gowns at her Lowell engagement that she has never worn before. She is going to have three distinct sets of costumes for her appearance here that are worth a small fortune. Particularly dazzling will be her gown made completely of white feathers which she has been collecting for the past three years. She will bring to Lowell something just a little ahead of what the smarter shops are now showing, something not right up-to-the-minute, but a trifle beyond.

With her will be the Castle Ensemble and Moscow orchestra. She will present the latest and newest dances in her own, estimable manner.

Seats are now on sale at Steinart's Tel. 1963.

CONDEMN LLOYD GEORGE'S SPEECH

London Morning Papers De-nounce Remarks by Premier at Manchester

Meeting Today Expected to Have Decisive Effect Upon Political Future

LONDON, Oct. 16. (By the Associated Press.)—The conservative members of the government have been summoned to meet today to decide whether they shall continue their support of the coalition under the leadership of Prime Minister Lloyd George. The meeting, which was called by Austen Chamberlain, lord privy seal and government leader in the house of commons, will include not only the conservatives in the cabinet but also the under-secretaries belonging to the party.

It is believed that Mr. Chamberlain will be backed by the four lords, Lord Birkbeck and Sir Robert Horne in his adhesion to the premier, but the attitude of several of the others is regarded as more than doubtful.

It is stated in well-informed quarters that there will be a demand from the majority that the conservative rank and file be consulted at a general party meeting before any decision is taken and that if this is not done there will be many resignations from the ministry—enough, according to some predictions, to cause its fall.

In any case it is believed that today's meeting is likely to have a decisive effect upon the political future, although the possibility of some arrangement which will hold the party together for a time is not excluded from consideration.

Lloyd George's Manchester speech is roundly condemned by the bulk of the morning papers, among which he has only two staunch supporters, the Daily Chronicle and the Daily Telegraph.

The Chronicle says that, notwithstanding the bitter and persistent slanders to which the premier has been subject in the last four years, he retains a great amount of support upon the masses. The newspaper points proudly to the ovation he received at Manchester.

The Telegraph comments, in a similar vein and prophesies further demonstrations of popular admiration. All the other newspapers have nothing but condemnation for the premier.

FRENCH COMMUNISTS FACE DISORGANIZATION

PARIS, Oct. 16.—The French communist party is facing almost certain disorganization, according to indications at the opening of the recent congress of the party, presided over by Marcel Cachin, communist member of the chamber of deputies.

The secretary's report showed that the membership has dropped in a year from 131,000 to 75,000.

The opening session yesterday was quiet until Boris Souvarine, reputed spokesman for the Russian Bolsheviks, took the floor. Then the storm broke, part of the congress applauding and cheering for the Third Internationale, while the others, apparently in the minority, cried "Down with the dictator."

DISCUSS THE RETURN OF AMERICAN TROOPS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—Return of the American troops in Germany, which has recently been taken up again for consideration by war department officials, was discussed today with President Harding by Secretary Weeks.

The impression was given after the conference that return of the American troops who now number about 1200, was not unlikely within a comparatively short time, although no official statement could be obtained as to the definite date.

Secretary Weeks said that now as in the past, he favored the early retirement of the American military establishment from Europe.

MISSING FOR 44 YEARS

Man Wanted on Charge of Killing Man in 1878 Arrested at St. Augustine

LUMBERTON, N. C., Oct. 15.—After wandering over the country and keeping his identity from the police for 44 years, Joseph B. Kemp, arrested at St. Augustine, Fla., last month, charged with killing Daniel B. McNeill near Red Springs on Aug. 15, 1878, and brought here for trial, is now at liberty under $4000 bond and is visiting his brothers and sisters in Bladen county, whom he had not seen in almost half a century. The Robeson county grand jury in November, 1878, returned a true bill against Kemp, charging murder. Kemp does not deny that he killed McNeill, according to Sheriff Lewis, but claims self-defense. The only living witness of the killing, it is said, is a brother of McNeill.

RADIO SAVED MAN'S LIFE BUT CAUSED HIS ARREST

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 16.—Radio, which saved the life of Leslie Dwyer Atkinson, last Thursday when the liner City of Honolulu burned at sea, yesterday turned against him and caused his arrest. Today he was in custody on the charge of leaving with army funds from the post exchange at Pearl Harbor, near Honolulu. Atkinson's experience was recited in a copyrighted despatch published by the San Francisco Chronicle today.

According to the account, Atkinson left Honolulu aboard the City of Honolulu and when fate placed him on the rescue ship, the transport Thomas Mannes identified him. Radio communication between the Thomas and army officers at Pearl Harbor resulted in the order for his arrest.

Passengers on the City of Honolulu identified Atkinson "as the life of the shipwreck." They said he was persistently cheerful.

FREED AFTER FIVE TRIALS ON MURDER CHARGE

ST. JOHN, N. B., Oct. 16.—John Paris of Truro, N. S., tried five times for the murder of Sallie McAuley, a crippled child, in August, 1921, was given his freedom today. The crown attorneys announced that they would not start proceedings for a sixth trial.

The trials of Paris are said to have constituted a record in Canadian legal procedure. Four of the five juries that heard the testimony reported disagreements. One was unanimous for conviction, but Paris obtained a new trial on a technicality. The jury panels for the five trials numbered nearly 500 men.

The mutilated body of the McAuley girl was buried a week after she had gone berry-picking. Paris, a mulatto, was arrested on the story of an acquaintance, who told the police that Paris appeared to know certain facts relative to the murder.

One condition was attached to Paris' release. He was obliged to enter into recognizance in 1920 to appear if called on. Attorney General J. P. Byrne, in announcing that the crown would not ask a sixth trial, said the prosecution had produced all the evidence it could.

COL. SIR ARTHUR DAVIDSON DEAD

LONDON, Oct. 16.—Colonel Sir Arthur Davidson died today, aged 65. He had a lengthy and varied military career, serving with distinction in the Afghan war of 1878-80, the Boer war and in the Egyptian campaign of 1882. From 1896 to 1901 he was quartermaster-in-chief to Queen Alexandra. He was knighted in 1910.

KILLS GIRL, SHOTS HIMSELF

BOSTON, Oct. 16.—Josephine Gentile, a 19-year-old candy maker, was shot and killed in the hallway of her East Boston home today by Laurence Dazzo, her cousin, who then fired two bullets into his own head. He was taken to a hospital in a critical condition. Dazzo is married. Jealousy is believed to have prompted the shooting.

FIRES SHOT ACROSS BOW

Dry Navy Speed Boat Seizes Schooner and Motor Boat—Whiskey Aboard

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—The prohibition navy speed boat Itala today fired a one pound shot across the bows of the schooner Emerald Bixby, eight miles off the entrance to Jamaica bay and then seized the two-striker and a motor boat named the Elsie, aboard both of which the prohibition agents claimed to have found whiskey—1008 cases in all. Ten men found aboard the alleged run-runners were arrested.

TO ASK PARDON FOR WIFE SLAYER

PITTSBURGH, Oct. 15.—Friends and relatives of Jack Edwards, a former policeman of Johnstown, Pa., who is serving a life sentence in the western penitentiary here for wife murder, today said they would appeal to the state pardon board for his release. The appeal will be based upon Edwards' story that he killed his wife when he learned she was in love with her son-in-law.

Word reached the prison yesterday that Edwards' daughter was dead. When the news was imparted to the prisoner, he declared: "I've been silent for 12 years, for I didn't want my daughter's home broken up. But now that she is dead, I'm going to tell the story."

Edwards said that he valued his daughter's happiness more than his own life and that this prompted him to conceal the motive for the killing.

PLAYERS DRAFTED FROM THE MINOR LEAGUES

CHICAGO, Oct. 16.—(By the Associated Press.) Only 13 minor league players were requisitioned at the annual major league drafting meeting held here yesterday. The National League taking the larger share of the youngsters. Only two American League clubs, New York and Washington, submitted names. Washington taking three and New York two players. The draft list as announced today at the office of N. S. Landis, baseball commissioner, follows:

St. Louis: Catcher of Pittsburgh, Scott; Conner of New York Americans; George W. Grant, Boston Nationals; C. E. Ebbets, Brooklyn; William Veck, Chicago Nationals; and a Mr. Barnard of Cleveland attended the meeting, although the latter did not present a draft list. Besides Cleveland, Detroit, St. Louis, Boston, Philadelphia and Chicago American league clubs did not draft players.

The St. Louis and Philadelphia Nationals made no drafts.

Liquor Opposite Police Station Stolen

HARTFORD, Conn., Oct. 16.—Eleven barrels of high grade liquor were stolen early today from a garage located across the street from the Hartford county jail. The police were notified by Myer Yellin, a former saloonkeeper, who owned the liquor and had a federal permit to dispose of it to druggists. He is said to have had the liquor in his garage more than three years. The police sent word to nearby cities requesting that watch be kept for a large motor truck which is believed to have been used by the robbers to carry off the liquor. The police estimated the value of the liquor at about $15,000.

SPEECH CAUSES FURORE

Kemalist Followers Resull Lloyd George's Phrase "Warlike Animals"

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 17.—(By the Associated Press.) Prime Minister Lloyd George's Manchester speech on the Near East of which a summary reached Constantinople last night, has created a furore among the Kemalist followers here. The entire summary was telegraphed immediately to Ankara.

"This speech," said the Kemalist representative here, "completely shatters the confidence which we were reposing in Great Britain after her assurances to us at Mudiana."

The phrase in which, as received here, the Kemalists were compared with "warlike animals," particularly displeased the nationalist delegate.

PLEADS NOT GUILTY TO KIDNAPPING CHARGE

TAUNTON, Oct. 16.—Eugene Choquette was arraigned before Judge E. E. Austin in district court today and pleaded not guilty to kidnapping "Russell Everett Smith" described in the complaint as the son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith of Dighton. His case was continued until next Monday, bail being fixed at $3000 which he was unable to furnish.

The little boy, whose parentage is claimed by Mrs. Smith and Choquette's wife was given into custody of the Society for Prevention of Cruelty to Children, pending determination of parentage, and was taken to Boston by Agent John F. Hallahan, of the society. There was a dramatic scene when Choquette was confronted by Mrs. Smith and the boy, in the office of State Detective Mansfield and Clemmy. The lad recognized Choquette as his "old daddy." He said he preferred to stay with Mrs. Smith.

GREAT BRITAIN PAYS FIRST INSTALLMENT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 6.—Great Britain today paid to the American government the first installment of interest on the loan of $500,000,000 advanced to that country during the war. A check for $50,000,000 was delivered to the Federal Reserve bank of New York by J. P. Morgan and Co. for the account of the British treasury.

This is the first interest payment to be received by the United States since May, 1919, for any of the principal allied governments to which nearly $10,000,000,000 were advanced during and immediately following the world war. The payment today by Great Britain is an advance of the refunding of the demand notes held in the American treasury. A commission for the British government is expected to arrive here next month to begin the refunding negotiations with the American debt commission.

"Angel of Broadway" Continues Meetings

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Captain Rheba Crawford, Salvation Army lass, freed from a charge of disorderly conduct preferred Sunday night by police who arrested her as she conducted a meeting in the heart of the theatrical district on Broadway, planned today to inquire of Police Commissioner Burght whether a prayer meeting has as much right on Broadway as a sight seeing bus, a bootlegger, or a dance hall. "The angel of Broadway," as she is called, plans to continue the Sunday night meetings which she has been conducting for the past two years. "Why," she said, "should the police want to stop the only plea for Godliness between Times Square and Columbus Circle. Most certainly I shall continue the meetings."

BIG NEW HOTEL FOR LOWELL

Chamber of Commerce is Considering Hotel Problem
From Many Angles

Meeting Tomorrow Night to Consider Appointment of
Hotel Working Committees

Emphasizing the success that has accompanied previous campaigns to raise funds by public subscription and build hotels in other cities of the country, the Chamber of Commerce, Inc., today sent a telegram to Secretary-Manager George F. Wells, once more requesting that the concern be given an opportunity to demonstrate its methods of organized effort, efficient sales-manship and experienced direction.

Until the chamber officials have considered the entire hotel project from many angles and heard reports from committees soon to be appointed, the favorable action can be taken with the Chamber of Commerce or any other similar organization for the present. The telegram received today emphasized the methods of fund-raising that met with so much success in Gardner, Massachusetts, where a campaign has just been completed.

The chamber officers were livelier than usual this morning, with official activities numerous, some of them created by the publicity given the campaign for a new hotel. Public interest has been thoroughly aroused and the mail received daily at the chamber indicates widespread interest in the proposition.
The news that the Chamber of Commerce, Inc., which conducted so successful a campaign for a new hotel in Gar-diner, now desires to start at once a similar campaign in Lowell when the time is fully ripe is something that arouses current interest in the popular project.

The hotel campaign received new support today when it was announced at the chamber executive offices that formal meetings on the cards for tomorrow night will be held at 8 o'clock at the chamber, with the following regular committee appointments and permanent organization with regular meetings to be held along well-told lines.

The first actual steps to bring together the members of a working committee of members of the chamber of commerce and active supporters of the new hotel improvements were taken today when the executive officers announced the names of the temporary committee that will be empowered to choose from a list of Lowell citizens names a permanent committee of executive persons sufficient to handle the new hotel proposition. This temporary committee, which has been requested by Secretary-Managers Wells to meet at organization headquarters on the third floor of the Fairbank building, tomorrow evening at 7:45 o'clock, is composed of the following members:

Albert D. Milliken of the Hamilton
Co., chairman.
William N. Goodell of the Locks &
Canals Co.
Terry J. Wilson of the Lowell Electrical Lighting Co.
Royce B. White of the Stirling Mills.

At tomorrow night's meeting of this quartet of representatives of several of the city's manufacturing and service institutions, a good-sized committee of Lowell citizens will be named to formally take up the new hotel proposition and put it to the limelight.
For this important committee are now being received by the chamber committee on committees, but no announcements will be made of final choice until the committee decides upon the list tomorrow evening.

LABOR LEADER IS CAMPAIGNING HERE

John Van Varenwyck, vice-president of the Massachusetts state branch of the American Federation of Labor, is spending a couple of days in this city campaigning against two referenda, which will appear on the ballot at the state election, one of which is the Voluntary Associations act, while the other is the Moving Picture Censorship act.

Mr. Varenwyck addressed meetings of the Loomhills, Telephone Workers, and Bricklayers last evening and this morning he spoke to the members of the Federated Crafts of the Boston & Maine railroad. He stated that both bills are a drive against labor and fraternal organizations and he urged his listeners to vote "No" on both questions. He said that both the national and state branches of the American Federation of Labor have unanimously voted that the motion picture is a necessary amusement, making possible entertainment in every locality, and that it should not be regulated by censorship, for censorship will mean fewer pictures, advanced prices and entertainment that the people do not want. He further stated that by voting for censorship
it is like saying Russia is good and America is bad.

During his stay in Lowell Mr. Van-arenwyck will address all the labor organizations and he will endeavor to speak at meetings of fraternal organizations.

ACCOUNTING COURSES

Big Registration for University Extension Courses at Textile School

Registration last night for three courses in accountancy in connection with the University Extension courses held at Lowell Textile school, brought forth about 55 students who are to take up the work this year. Included in the 55 were 10 who registered for the elementary course, otherwise known as the first year course. According to Prof. Herbert J. Ball, who has charge of the classes, the number signifying their intentions of taking up this subject will be well over a 100 as many who came last night were not prepared to make the $5 deposit necessary for the course of 16 lessons.
Those who have not already registered will be given an opportunity to do so next Monday and Tuesday nights at the school between the hours of 7 and 9. This is the only place where it is possible to register for these courses outside of the state house in Boston.

The accountancy courses are not new ones at the school, but have been held for the past four years. There are three classes, elementary or first year, principles or second year, and cost accounting or third year. A person may enter any class he desires. At the start of each class the work is outlined and the individual is left to determine his eligibility for any of the courses.

The principles and cost courses will start next Monday, the classes to be held from 7 to 9. The elementary course will start next Tuesday and will be held at the same hours. W. B.
Maynard is assisting Prof. Ball in the courses.

JEWISH FUND CAMPAIGN STARTS HERE SUNDAY

Although a week behind the Boston leaders in the "Palestine fund" subscription race, Lowell workers in the Jewish fund campaign for giving succor to deserving brethren in the home land are undaunted.

Arrangements were completed today by prominent members of the Jewish community in Lowell, vicinity, to begin the "Lowell campaign" for funds in aid of the Palestine Foundation fund.
At the home of Rabbi Elias Wolfson
this morning, it was stated that plans
had been made for a monster mass
meeting to be held next Sunday in the Keren in Lowell, vicinity, to begin
the "Lowell campaign" for funds in
aid of the Palestine Foundation fund.
At the home of Rabbi Elias Wolfson
this morning, it was stated that plans
had been made for a monster mass
meeting to be held next Sunday in the Keren in Lowell, vicinity, to begin
the "Lowell campaign" for funds in
aid of the Palestine Foundation fund.

More than $250,000 is expected to be raised in Greater Boston alone, and Lowell will try and contribute a goodly sum to the foundation program,
according to Rabbi Wolfson.

The formal opening of the Keren evening occurred in Boston Monday evening, with a banquet at the Elks-club, Huntington avenue. Samuel Untermyer of New York, head of the Keren in New York, and S. A. Cotter, Jewish Welfare League, member of the British parliament, and Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to the United States, were the principal speakers.

Last year the Palestine Foundation fund committee raised more than $5, 000,000 in this country alone. Lowell
Jewish people in the last campaign succeeded in raising more than $11,000, a fact that indicates the generosity of Lowell Jewish residents and practically assures the success of the new campaign in this district.

The money is used in Palestine for the foundation of the Jewish homeland through the maintaining of a so-ries of public services and institutions, with agricultural colonization, sanitation and education given principal importance. The educational system comprises 137 schools, with 500 teachers and 13,000 pupils entirely supported by this fund.

Among the other activities supported in Palestine by the fund are a medical and sanitation service which had its origin in the United States in 1918, a housing bank which promotes building operations in city and country,
and an immigration service bureau which takes care of newcomers on their landing and provides them with work and homes.

OLD THIRTY-THIRD WILL HOLD REUNION

The fifty-sixth anniversary reunion of the surviving members of the old Thirty-Third Massachusetts Volunteer
Infantry will be held in Memorial hall,
Wednesday, Oct. 25, according to notices issued today to members and friends of the veteran organization by William H. Severance, president, of Troy; John J. Ryder, vice president, Buxwards Bay, and W. T. Bartlett, secretary, of this city.

Sixty years ago 1,200 members of this famous fighting command were prepared for orders to move into their first real battle at Thoroughfare Gap down in Virginia. Upon this anniversary the comrades will meet in the hall of Post No. 42, G.A.R., Memorial building, the same as last year, and celebrate with reunion speeches, informal receptions of members old and new,
visiting "vets" and auxiliary members,
and at noon sit down to the annual banquet.

As usual, the banquet is provided without cost to the members, and friends of the veteran organization, a departed friend of the soldiers leaving an annuity to pay all expenses.

Election of officers for the coming year and speech-making will follow
the close of the banquet.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Defendant in Liquor Case
Appeals From $75 Fine
and Direct Sentence

Hypolite Buslewick, charged with the illegal keeping of liquor, appeared in the district court this morning and was ordered to pay a fine of $75 and spend one month in the house of correction. Buslewick appealed and was held in bonds of $300 for his appearance in the superior court on the first Monday in November.

Hypolite's case is one of long standing on the court records. Testimony was offered, showing that on the evening of August 17, certain members of the liquor squad visited his wife's store in Howe street and in the course of their investigation, they came across a slender bottle of moonshine, stored off in a baby carriage, one gallon of the same variety on the shelf and eight bottles of Jamaica Ginger in various parts of the store.

The defendant denied all knowledge of his liquor and contended that the goods had been placed on the property
by a man who wished to see him arrested as settlement for an old grudge.
Judge Pickman carefully compared the evidence of defendant's witnesses and also that of a young boy who claimed he had purchased moonshine at the Buslewick's establishment on numerous occasions, and found defendant guilty. In June, 1921, Buslewick was fined $100 in the local court for illegal keeping and another $100 on August 8 of this year, on a charge of maintaining a public nuisance.

George F. Maguire, for drunkenness, was sentenced to one month in the house of correction, Bridget E. John-to the same place for a similar period of time, and Thomas P. Brady, 20 days to the house of correction.

James Bryan pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness and was given a suspended sentence of three months in the house of correction. He was told by the court that if he did not stop drinking, he would soon find himself in jail or in the graveyard.
For being a vagrant, Florence O'Neill was committed to the reformatory at Bridgewater. Frank Laundry, whose case came up today, following a continuance from Oct. 7, on a charge of drunkenness, was placed in the care of the probation officer.

XAVIERIAN BROS. HOME DELEGATES HERE FOR CONVENTION

Teachers of St. Patrick's
'School to Occupy Remodeled Brown Estate.

After several months of preparation,
during which extensive alterations have been made, the Xavierian Brothers of St. Patrick's parish are about to remove their community quarters from the present location on Wilder street to the more pretentious and up-to-date premises at the corner of Fletcher and Varney streets, overlooking the sundries green of the State campus. The new and modern home is now ready for occupancy and if present plans mature,
the brothers will be housed there the latter part of this week, following a day of public inspection on Thursday between the hours of 3 and 6 in the afternoon and 7 and 9 in the evening.
It will be recalled that the brethren originally resided in Varney street just a short distance from Fletcher, but because of the lack of suitable conveniences in that territory, it was deemed advisable by the then superior, Brother Casper and the late Rt. Rev.
Mr. William O'Brien, to locate in Wilder street. That was about four years ago and while the Wilder street residence was an imposing and a comfortable one, the intervening distance between the house and St. Patrick's school in Suffolk street, where the brothers spend their days in teaching, was too great and occasioned additional hardships and inconveniences, especially during the winter months and for this reason, the late monsignor, always considerate of tollers in religion, purchased the old Brown estate at the junction of Fletcher and Varney streets and, under his personal direction, the renovating process was started only last summer.

The remodeled house contains 16
rooms and is ideally fitted for a community residence. All modern improvements have been installed, in fact, everything possible has been done to have it compare favorably with the best community house in the order, so that the building as it stands today well-high approaches perfection in every particular. A large, commodious living room and a beautiful sun parlor occupy the main floor, the latter containing the most beautiful view in connection with the home and tend to make it an accomplishment of which the parish may be justly proud. The electric lighting equipment and fixtures are of the best quality while the various rooms have been newly decorated with wall paper of artistic taste and correspondingly beautiful borders.

Several of the floors have been clad with hard wood, and the lower walls made more substantial by new sheathing. Ornamental fire places, colonial style, add greatly to the appearance of the living and other rooms and give a locality to the home atmosphere in connection with the home and tend to
make it an accomplishment of which the parish may be justly proud. The electric

In line with the policy of marketing the lowest priced automobile in the world, we have today received from the Ford Motor Co., an announcement of a reduction in the price of Ford Cars effective at once.

These prices are the lowest in the history of the Ford Motor Co. and form a perfectly plausible reason why every family and business house in Lowell and vicinity should own and operate a Ford car.

LIVE STOCK BURNED IN STUBBORN
FIRE AT COUNTY INSTITUTION

Seven Pigs Lost at Middlesex County
Training School Today as Fire Destroys Tool Shed, Lean-to and Horse Barn—Fire Started in Pile of Leaves—Cause Unknown

Fire, which started about 5 o'clock this morning and burned fiercely for an hour or more, damaged three buildings of the Middlesex county training school in North Chelmsford to the extent of several thousand dollars. Seven pigs were lost in the fire, while 16 others, 6 cows and three horses quartered in the buildings, were either removed before the fire started or saved during the height of the blaze. A large tool shed, under which the fire started in a pile of dry leaves, a lean-to used to shelter cows and a large three-story barn, with an attic, were entirely or partially destroyed. Supt. Charles G. Hoyt was unable to estimate the entire loss, but said the amount would run into the thousands as there were many expensive tools and wagons in the buildings.

Shortly before 8 o'clock boys quartered in the Richardson cottage noticed smoke coming from the rear of the toolhouse, a one-story affair with a nine-foot cellar. At almost the same time Headmaster Kelmor of the Richardson cottage saw the smoke and rushed to the toolhouse. As he reached the rear of the structure a big blue flame up, completely enveloping the rear of the house.
Other employees were attracted to the scene and they succeeded in getting out the 16 pigs. The seven pigs were caught behind a fiery wall and it was not until the amount would run into the

MRS. HALL AND BROTHER TAKEN TO COURTHOUSE BY DETECTIVE

Authorities Investigating Double Slay-ing Plan Further Examination of Widow of Slain Rector and Her Eccentric Brother—Reporters Barred

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., Oct. 17
(By the Associated Press).—Mrs.
Frances Stevens Hall and her brother, William Stevens, were taken to the courthouse by Detective David H. Miller shortly after 11 o'clock today, for further examination by authorities investigating the murder of the Rev. Edward Wheeler Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Reinhardt Hall.
Mrs. Hall and her brother were accompanied by Miss Sally Peters, a close friend of the slain widow and another woman.
Shortly before their arrival, County Prosecutor of Middlesex—who have been at least two arrests before they began questioning Henry Elevin, the brother of Mrs. Hall, said who had driven over from his home in Lavallette in response to a summons.
Newspaper men working on the Hall case were barred from the courthouse during the examinations.
The authorities planned to summon

Miss Florence North, attorney for Charlotte Mills, the slain woman's sister, to ask her as to the authenticity of letters purporting to have been written by Mr. Hall to Mrs. Mills, which were published this morning by a New York newspaper.
The letters, couched in endearing
terms of the most extravagant nature, were reported to have been obtained from Charlotte. The authorities want to know how the newspaper was able to obtain them when they were withheld from those seeking to solve the double-slaying mystery.
Charlotte Mills was taken from her class in high school and accompanied to the courthouse by one of the state troopers working on the case.
After they had been in the courthouse for about three hours, Mrs.
Hall, Miss Peters and the woman who had accompanied them returned to the Hall home. Henry and William Stevens remained for further questioning.

Forces of Government and
Ship Lines Open Fight on Attorney General's Order

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(By the Associated Press) Wet and dry forces
face each other today before Judge
Learned Hand in the first pitched battle between federal prohibition enforcement authorities and foreign and American steamship lines over the validity of Attorney-General Daugherty's
liquor ruling.
The calendar of Judge Hand's court
was cleared for the hearings of temporary injunctions returnable today,
restraining the enforcement authorities from putting into effect the ruling
forbidding American and foreign ships,
leaving port after October 21, from carrying liquor under seal into or out of American ports.
The government forces were prepared to present arguments to show
why they should not be permanently enjoined from putting into effect the provisions of the Daugherty ruling. Attorneys for the steamship companies were prepared for a bitter
fight, it was stated by representatives
of both factions.
At the American lines of the American Steamship Owners' Association and foreign lines will await the results of today's hearing before taking action.

Mr. Gompers and Keneaw M. Landis, received a noisy welcome from the veterans when they entered the con-

Presentation of the national colors
to the delegates opened the session.
Hanford MacNider then presented John Barton Payne, national head of the American Red Cross, and declared that the Red Cross had done a great deal to carry out the Legion's policy

in regard to the disabled.
Commissioner John J. Rigert of the federal bureau of education then extended greetings to the Legion. The men who came back from France, Mr.
Rigert said, were disillusioned when

TO PREPARE CLAUSES OF FOR GREEK REPUBLIC

Campaign Has Strongly Aroused the Royalist Newspapers

ATHENS, Oct. 17.—(By the Associated Press) The campaign to make Greece a republic, launched directly after the return from Paris of the new foreign minister, Nicholas Politis, prominent Venizelist, has strongly aroused the royalist newspapers.
Nea Himeria declares that in its judgment the Greek people will overwhelmingly oppose the idea of a republic at the coming elections, and that at any rate, they would distrust a republic presided over by M. Venizelos.
The other royalist organs also defy the Venizelists to go openly before the people as sponsors of a republic, be-

ROTARIANS OPEN NEW CLUB QUARTERS

Lowell Rotarians put over a crowded free-for-all this noon in celebrating the formal opening of the new club din-

second story of the Doves' club building on Dutton street, banquet seats being at a premium and standing room only the rule from 12:15 to 2 p. m. when the fireworks were over.
Charles King and Arthur Deagan, Cohan comedians, came up from Boston to sing, dance and perform quaint joshings in the direction of the gay clubmen. King sang "Nellie Kelly, I Love You," with a couple of encores, and Deagan, a 200-pounder, mounted the platform, hugged the piano and let go. His songs had the typical Kelly jingle, his jokes referred to the days of Tom Collins and Martin collections.

HEARINGS ARE POSTPONED ON THE LOWELL MANDAMUS CASES
IN SUPREME COURT

(Special to The Sun)
BOSTON, Oct. 17.—Because of the stress of business that had priority resulting from controversy over the petition for Plan B charter were not called in the supreme court, at the Pemberton square courthouse today.
It is thought that the cases will be called up the first thing tomorrow morning. The 11 V. Greene clock case was being heard and this took up most of the sessions. Another case was also listed in ahead of the Lowell cases. The Greene case proved to be a long drawn-out affair and when the court had reached a period about one hour from adjournment, it was said that this case was only about one half heard.
When the cases are called before Justice DeCourcy it is very probable that much of the anticipated argument will not materialize for counsel engaged on opposite sides in both cases have agreed on many of the facts. So thorough has been the agreement in the Plan B, or mayor's petition, which seeks to keep the question off the ballot, that it is expected only arguments of counsel will be heard.
In the matter of the second petition
however, the one filed by the original board of election commissioners, asking for legal recognition and freedom from interference, no agreement has been reached as to alleged fraudulency of signatures upon the petition, or as to the good faith of the action of the mayor and the original and temporary boards.
This case is expected to furnish a great deal of court controversy, but an attempt will be made to try both cases simultaneously.
Answers have been filed with the court by the secretary of the commonwealth and City Clerk Stephen Flynn, both of whom have been named by the mayor as respondents in the petition.
Present in the court room this morning were Mayor George H. Brown, City Solicitor Edward J. Tierney, Edward Mulry, Hugh C. McOsker, J. Omer Allard, Thomas H. Braden and Joseph H.
Maguire of the old board of election commissioners; Joseph A. Cloutier, Paul M. O'Dowd, Lorenzo A. Gouin and Patrick F. Kieran of the temporary board; Attorney John M. O'Donoghue, associated with Mr. Tierney; Assistant Attorney General York, representing the secretary of state; Fisher Pearson, representing Charles Flynn and Albert
S. Howard and Melville G. Rogers, representing the original election commission, and certain signers of the Plan
B petition.

JAMAICA GINGER DESTROYED

Home Made Wine and Beer and 400
Bottles of Jamaica Ginger in "Fatal Smashup"—Lowell Moonshine Taken to Boston to Be Redistilled

At the request of the police department of this city, state agents with the assistance of local officers, destroyed $4000 worth of "outlaw" liquids which had fallen into the clutches of the prohibited trade, as the result of recent raids on premises hereabouts. This morning's "killing" included 200 gallons of beer
of the genus home-brew, 400 bottles of Jamaica ginger, two kegs of wine, 5000 empty bottles and 400 empty jars which had been seized as evidence at numerous places. Besides the destruction of these liquors, 250 gallons of moonshine were shipped to Boston via truck, where it will be redistilled and sold as alcohol for medicinal purposes. The empty bottles will be sold to a local junk dealer.

TELLS OF DELAY
IN STREET WORK

Supt. Doherty Says Department is Being Held Up On Several Jobs

Lack of Materials and Inability of Others to Help Are Chief Causes

Work contemplated by the street department in many sections of the city has been held up by the inability of certain concerns to deliver materials and the inability of the department to have the way cleared for its work in certain other localities, according to a statement given out this morning by Supt. of Streets Henry P. Doherty.
The streets superintendent wants it understood that his department is ready to do work required of it and scheduled by the city and he does not want the public to place the burden for non-completion of work upon the street department, for in his opinion that department is not to blame in any way for the failure of work promised some time ago.
Supt. Doherty cited as examples the amalgam work to be done on Broadway,
the work on First street, Lakewood avenue and Kirk street. Regarding the work on Broadway, Supt. Doherty said that work is being held up there that should have been completed weeks ago. The reason for the delay, according to the superintendent, is the inability of the amalgam company to ship goods.
The work on Broadway is only about half completed. Mr. Doherty exhibited a letter from the amalgam company in which it referred to a telephonic conversation of a recent date in which Mr.
Doherty urged the prompt delivery of material. The company explained that its inability to deliver goods was the

UNIONISTS TO MEET THURSDAY

Political Crisis Expected to Be Brought to Head at Coming Meeting

Speculation Busy as to What Will Follow Meeting's Decision

LONDON, Oct. 17 (By the Associated Press).—The meeting of unionists called for Thursday at the Carlton club will be of great importance, as it is almost certain to bring the political crisis to a head. Until its decision, whether to break up the coalition or stand by Prime Minister Lloyd George, is known, the situation is not expected
to develop materially in any direction.
The attendance at the meeting is to be confined to the unionist members of the house of commons and the unionist peers who are members of the government. Thus it will not be representative of the entire party.
Accordingly, it is declared, Mr.

party as a whole and only feels called upon to explain or defend his declared

LOWELL MAN IS CHARGED WITH MANSLAUGHTER

Henry Underwood of 26 Bourne street, this city, was arraigned in the Methuen police court this morning on a charge of manslaughter. He entered a plea of not guilty and his case was continued until Nov. 3. His bail being fixed at $1000.
Underwood was the driver of one of the automobiles which collided on the Lowell-Lawrence boulevard on the night of Oct. 5, causing the death of Robert Gustaf of 25 Wamsitt street, this city. The driver of the car was Archie Bartholomew of Cabot street, this city. Underwood has just been released from St. John's hospital, where he had been undergoing treatment for injuries received in the same accident.

4000 UKULELES BURNED

HONOLULU, Oct. 17.—(By the Associated Press) Upwards of 400 ukuleles went up in smoke Sunday when fire of unknown origin destroyed what was said to be the largest ukulele factory in the world. The loss is estimated at $10,000.
Jonah Kumale, county supervisor and former democratic candidate for the nomination for delegate to congress, who some times is known as the "ukulele king," owned the plant.

SECOND LEG OF ENDURANCE TEST

20 Horses and Riders Left Brandon, Vt., Early This Morning in a Driving Rain

One Horse and Two Riders
Were Unable to Continue
—"Oh La" Withdrawn

BRANDON, Vt., Oct. 17.—Twenty horses and riders left here in a driving rain early this morning for Burlington, on the second 60 mile leg of the 300
mile endurance test for army mounts.
One horse and two riders were unable to continue the journey, which brought the cavalcade to this town from Fort Ethan Allen, yesterday. The Anglo-Arab mare named "Oh, La," owned by W. R. Brown of Berlin, N. H., and ridden by Lorey Prentiss, was bothered by soreness as she left the stables and her owner withdrew before she had gone 200 yards from her stall.
J. Howard Lemaine of Boston, who rode his Kentucky mare "Sunray" on yesterday's leg, suffered from an attack of indigestion last night, and today James Hennessy had the mount on "Sunray."
The other rider to withdraw was J. M. Rittou, who was replaced on the Morgan mare "Scotia" today by Austin Gibson. Mr. Rittou's horse fell at Hinesburg yesterday and aggravated an injury to the rider's knee.
The route today lay over the rain-soaked country roads reaching Burlington by way of Bristol and Hinesburg. The noon stop was to be made at the former place.

PITCHED BATTLE
ON LIQUOR BAN

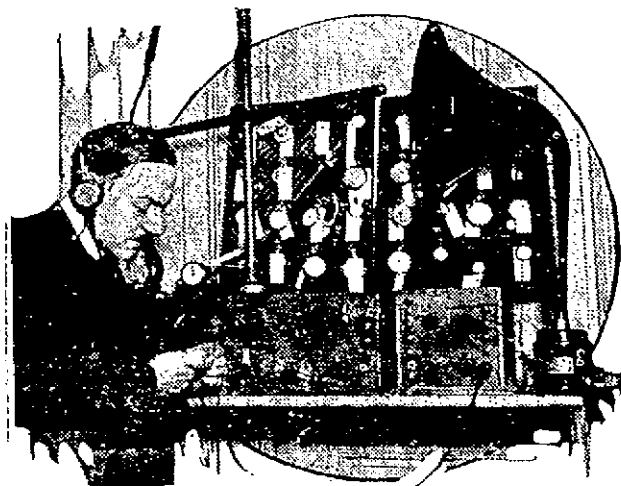

Wet and Dry Forces Face
Each Other Before Judge
Hand in New York

Forces of Government and
Ship Lines Open Fight on Attorney General's Order

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—(By the Associated Press) Wet and dry forces
face each other today before Judge
Learned Hand in the first pitched battle between federal prohibition enforcement authorities and foreign and American steamship lines over the validity of Attorney-General Daugherty's
liquor ruling.
The calendar of Judge Hand's court
was cleared for the hearings of temporary injunctions returnable today,
restraining the enforcement authorities from putting into effect the ruling
forbidding American and foreign ships,
leaving port after October 21, from
carrying liquor under seal into or out
of American ports.
The government forces were prepared to present arguments to show
why they should not be permanently enjoined from putting into effect the provisions of the Daugherty ruling. Attorneys for the steamship companies were prepared for a bitter
fight, it was stated by representatives
of both factions.
At the American lines of the American Steamship Owners' Association and foreign lines will await the
results of today's hearing before taking action.

Set Your Watch by Radio

SIMON RIMLER, NEW YORK JEWELER, SETS HIS WATCHES BY RADIO

BY N. E. A. SERVICE
NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Get the correct time by radio.
If you have no receiving set, to tune in on Arlington, go to a jeweler's. More likely he will have a set alongside his worktable.
For this is the latest adaptation made to the watchmaker's art. He no longer depends on telegraphic notice of the accurate time. The radio is even more accurate.
Heretofore the great electrical clock at Washington has been sending its ticks off to the rest of the country by telegraph. Telegraph still keeps most jeweler's clocks in conformity with the master clock in Washington but radio is beginning to supplant it.

duct broadcasting stations. An important part of the broadcasting is the dissemination of the accurate time after its reception by radio from the naval station at Arlington.
Other jewelers have had radio sets installed in their shops. Twice a day they receive official time signals from Arlington, and they set their clocks and watches by these signals.
In Germany, radio in connection with this business has gone even farther. One of its firms has applied for a patent on a clock which can be corrected, set and wound by radio. Once the clock is started and it is "tuned in" by radio, there is no more bother or worry for the owner.

Alarm Clock
A Frenchman, who is both radio enthusiast and watchmaker, has succeeded in constructing a radio alarm clock. According to the report from France, he uses a receiving apparatus tuned to respond only to a call consisting of certain letters sent at a certain speed.

When the proper combination of dots and dashes is received, the last signal operates a relay that closes a circuit and rings the alarm.

WANT ADS BY RADIO

The radio newspaper is gradually getting to be all that the daily journal is—including even the small want ads to back. The first step in this direction has been taken by the navy's station at Anacostia. From this station help wanted ads are being broadcast whenever application for such is made. It is a step toward the establishment of an employment clearing house.

POSTAL EMPLOYEES TO BENEFIT BY HOLIDAYS

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—Postal employees, long compelled to stay on the job while their fellow-townsmen celebrated a local or state holiday, will be given the opportunity hereafter to share in the festivities under the provisions of an order issued yesterday by Postmaster General Work. The sweeping order instructs all postmasters to release as many workers as conditions permit on occasions when local or state holidays result in a virtual suspension of business in the community. The postmaster general, in a statement, said the order was unprecedented, but that, while extending to the employees more liberties than they heretofore have enjoyed, it promised to maintain the same standard of service for the country without compelling all the workers to remain at their duties. He urged postmasters in releasing the employees to distribute the holiday privilege equitably.

Livestock Burned

impossible to save them. The cows which are housed in the lean-to and joining the tool shed had been turned out to pasture but a half hour previous and the horses had gone to town. The school owns a horse reel and this was immediately pressed into service. The fact that most of the boys were scattered about the estate, working, made it impossible to organize a fire-fighting force of much strength. The hose from the reel was a bit short and its aid in extinguishing the blaze was slight.

In the meantime the nation in the main office had been notified and she telephoned the North Chelmsford and Lowell fire departments. Both departments made quick runs but when they reached the school the tool shed, lean-to and the ell of the barn were all ablaze.

Nine Deers on Scene

An alarm was turned in from box 519 a few minutes after their arrival which brought additional pieces of apparatus. In all nine pieces were on the scene to combat the fire. It was found that it would be useless to attempt to save the tool shed or lean-to as the flames had made such headway that the walls were already falling in. The firemen directed their attention to saving the ell and main horse barn.

While the ell was badly gutted, the main barn was saved, although the fire reached some parts of it adjacent to the ell. It was necessary to pour great quantities of water into the barn and on to the roof to keep this structure from burning and this fact augmented the damage.

The fire-fighters were handicapped from the fact that five tons of No. 3 hay were stored in the ell and barn from which arose a heavy black cloud of smoke. This hay, valued at about $150, was destroyed. This portion saved from the actual fire was rendered useless for feeding purposes by water and smoke. The roof of the stable had to be hacked in many places to get to the fire which had traveled by means of snubbers to the top of the structure.

Crane Undetermined
It was impossible to determine the cause of the fire. It has been the custom each year to collect leaves and store them under and in the rear of the tool shed. They are used for bedding purposes in the fall and winter. The season's supply had been about stored up and the recent warm weather had dried them so that they burned like tinder.

The tool shed contained hundreds of shovels, hoes, hay forks and other farming implements. There was no cellar to the lean-to, but the barn contained a large one in which wagons, plows and other tools were stored. While it was possible to pull out many of the wagons nearest the door, there were some that could not be reached owing to the nearness of the blaze and the intense heat made by the burning leaves and hay.

The fire gave the firemen a stubborn battle but after an hour's work it was well under control. When the tool shed and lean-to collapsed the task of the firemen was made easier for they were then able to surround the barn from all four sides, a fact which was impossible as long as the lean-to burned.

First Fire in Years
It is a number of years since a fire of any consequence has destroyed property at the school. Not since Sept.

Hoey has taken charge of the institution, 15 years ago, has the place been visited by fire. A short while before that a fire destroyed the bike shop. Sept. Hoey expressed appreciation at the manner in which the companies worked to save the barn. And their ready and prompt response to the alarm possibly prevented a fire of larger proportions. While there is not another building in the exact vicinity of the barn, there are several wooden buildings on the grounds that might have caught fire from flying embers had the companies not arrived when they did and subdued the blaze.

Rival Mothers of "Kidnapped" Boy In Favor of Blood Test

"BOY OF MYSTERY" AND, MRS. SMITH

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—While two women, both claiming to be his mother, vehemently asserting their love for him and desire to make his future bright, are preparing to battle for his possession through the use of the latest science of identification—the blood test—a sad, wide-eyed, and much puzzled little boy known as "Robert Ernest Everett" and also as "Russell Everett Smith," is without a home—no charge of charity. Meanwhile a justice in the district court at Taunton is preparing to pass on the case in which precedent dates back 3000 years to Solomon's reign in the Kingdom of Israel.

The boy of mystery is a little chap who was discovered on a farm in Lawrence, Mass., last week by Mrs. Clarence B. Smith of Dighton. She brought him from Maine, believing he is her son who was stolen in 1919. Mrs. Eugene Choquette, wife of a wanderer held for kidnapping the boy, also claims to be his mother.

Judge Frederick B. Austin of the First Bristol district court, at Taunton, yesterday, presided at the first session of a legal battle that threatens to outlive the famous "Duke of Burgundy" and "Fresno Dan" litigation that established history in Bay State courts. In the case of the boy of mystery the heart interest is greater—there is no fortune at stake—simply mother love. Each woman declared publicly yesterday that the 76 pounds of boyish humanity, who plays the stellar role in this great drama from life, is her first born babe.

Agrees to Blood Test
Mrs. Clarence B. Smith of Dighton says she will never stop while any human effort may avail that will give her custody of the boy she believes is the one stolen from her on April 19, 1919.

"I will agree to a blood test, to anything that science may have discovered—to any discomfort or expense to win my baby back. I have suffered the torments of the damned since he was stolen. I can suffer more and I will," said Mrs. Smith yesterday.

"The boy is mine," declared Mrs. Choquette, wife of the wanderer arrested and held for kidnapping the boy, who in the warrant is called "Russell Everett Smith."

"He was born without a name, that's true. I was 15 when my darling was born. His father ran away and joined the army under an assumed name. I was sent to the state infirmary at Tewksbury. I have married a good man. He didn't steal the boy. I brought him to my husband and he accepted the little nameless darling and has cared for him since our marriage. I won't give him up. He's mine. I'll submit to a blood test. I'll have contact."

The district court room at Taunton was crowded when Judge Austin called the case of Eugene Choquette yesterday. The man who admits he has wandered over the world most of his life, pleaded not guilty to a charge of kidnapping. On motion of state officers the case was continued for two weeks. Choquette was held in bonds of $3000. In lieu of surety he was sent to jail at Bedford.

Meets His "Old Daddy"
Before he was committed to jail this strange man, clad in the picturesque attire of a cowboy, was brought to a private room in the court house. With police officers, newspapermen and others present the long mystery was brought in. The boy who Choquette declares is the illegitimate offspring of his wife, whom he cared for and carried thousands of miles with him in his wanderings and whom he left with a kindly old couple in the farming village of Lawrence, Mass., last month, entered the room. His eyes popped out.

Antonio Light, who was a passenger, though badly injured, telephoned the first account of the accident to reach this city, and was immediately taken to a hospital.

Yves was being towed out," he said, "and as the nose of the ship came outside of the hangar, I noticed it sway a little with the wind and as it proceeded it creased to one side. When the ship was a little more than half way out, the wind caught it with full force and carried it over to the west side of the entrance of the hangar. The wind left the big bag go and it dropped, the bottom of the car scraping the floor. Another puff of wind caught us and I decided to jump. I saw the big ship vent and heard the hissing of gas. There must have been another rent in the bag, for the force of the escaping gas threw me violently to the floor. Then came the explosion. I was knocked down by someone running. The big bag was a mass of flames. All of the others must have gone away before the explosion came." Police ambulances and emergency cars rushed to the scene a few moments after the report came and doctors left the city immediately for the scene of the accident.

Fourth Lost in Two Years
NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Destruction by fire of the army dirigible G-2 at Brooks field today, marks the fourth spectacular loss of a big airship within less than two years.

On February 21, the Roma blew up over Hampton Roads; on August 24, 1921, the ZR-2, built in England, was destroyed. Since then there have been three more disasters. On January 1, 1921, the ZR-3, which made two transatlantic voyages in 1919, was wrecked in a gale at Howden, England.

Altman Crushed to Death
SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Oct. 17.—Lieut. Walter A. Ball, 27, stationed at Fort Belvoir, was crushed to death at 5:10 o'clock this morning, when his airplane fell 500 feet. The aviator was flying a single seated plane over the southern part of the city and it crashed at the intersection of two highways.

Ball was married, his wife residing here.

NATURALIZATION SESSION
The naturalization class for women conducted last evening in St. Joseph's college hall in Merrimack street, was well attended. The women must have already taken out their second papers. The instructions were given by the president of the Women's naturalization committee, Mrs. E. J. Bennett, and the secretary, Mrs. Doucette. There were remarks by Albert Bergeron, Timothy Roy, Maximo Loppine and Altona Brasseur. The committee is planning a visit and social to be given for the benefit of the orphans of the city in the very near future.

DIES OF BULLET WOUNDS New York Broker Shot by Woman—Latter Then Attempted to End Life

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Oscar M. Martelliere, real estate and insurance broker, who was shot five times by Mrs. Pauline Saludes, a divorcee French woman, late yesterday, died early today in the Beekman Street hospital. The shooting occurred in Martelliere's downtown office and was witnessed by his stenographer, Miss Gertrude Thompson.

Mrs. Saludes, who made unsuccessful efforts to end her own life by jumping from the window of a law firm's office, was arrested after shooting Martelliere and after being taken to the police station. Mrs. Saludes told her several days ago that she loved Martelliere and that he had promised to marry her if he could get a divorce. Mrs. Martelliere said she informed Mrs. Saludes she would not stand in her way, and asked her "Are you sure he will marry you?" Mrs. Saludes replied Mrs. Martelliere said: "Well if he doesn't something terrible will happen to him."

Legion regarded the interests of the disabled service men as its first responsibility still ringing in their ears. World war veterans began the second day's session of their convention with indications that the rehabilitation question again would be the chief topic under discussion.

In this connection, the legionnaires were considering the bulletin issued to all post commanders by Lemuel Bolles, national adjutant, advising them that millions of dollars collected during the war for the benefit of soldiers and sailors are still being held by the American Legion. The national adjutant advised the commanders to take proper steps to secure all war chest collections.

ALASKA ONCE A TROPICAL REGION
SEATTLE, Wash., Oct. 17.—That Alaska once was a tropical region is said to be indicated by a bone three feet long weighing 50 pounds brought here by F. A. Swift, an old time mining man to be presented to the University of Washington. Swift found the bone in a bank of the Koyukuk river, 60 miles north of Bettles, Alaska, within the Arctic Circle. It was 25 feet deep in gravel and came to light in hydraulic mining operations. It is believed to be part of the skeleton of a mastodon.

PLQT TO OVERTHROW U. S. GOVERNMENT CHARGED

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., Oct. 17.—(By the Associated Press) Arraignment of twenty alleged Communists charged with plotting to overthrow the government of the United States by force was set for today, the first test of Michigan's anti-syndicalism law, which was passed as a war time measure.

Sixteen of the twenty men were arrested Aug. 22 when they swooped down on a wooden shop near Bridgman, this county, and intercepted what the government charges was the national convention of the Communist party of America, representatives in this country of the Third International of Moscow.

Tells of Delay in Street Work

result of an embargo the government has placed on all open cars with sideboards of three feet or more. The concern asserted that it had the amiesite shipped but that it could not obtain a car now. Then it was stated that the situation was clearing somewhat and it was thought cars would be available within a short while.

Superintendent Doherty said that he had been battling with the company for a month now for shipments. He said that during last week he only was able to get four cars of amiesite while this week had produced but two cars. Previous to this he explained that for the three weeks prior to last week he was able to get only a small quantity. He said that he could use about 100 tons per day at the present time. It seems that some of the cars being shipped now are small flat cars which contain only about 40 tons of the road building material while an ordinary car will carry about 80 tons. The superintendent averred that it was most necessary to obtain the amiesite while the warm weather continued as it could be handled much better now than it could be when the frost gets into the ground.

The lack of amiesite is not the only thing that brings wrinkles to the forehead of the streets department boss. It claims that crushed stone is also very scarce on the market. All available supply in this locality has been used and it has been necessary to send the city's trucks to Winchester, Woburn and other places to get stone. A certain amount is being turned out at the city's ledge but the demand far exceeds the supply. The lack of crushed stone is explained by the fact that there is much building going on and that people are attempting to push the work before the winter sets in. An order has been placed for a large amount of crushed gravel and this will be used in the construction work although none of it will be used for surfacing.

Another matter pointed out by Supt. Doherty, is the delay on First street. He says there are some houses there that should have been moved long ago to allow the street department a chance to get in and do some work. It is planned to widen the street by 11 feet and put in a 10-foot sidewalk. He says that this is impossible.

TURK GUNBOAT SEIZES GREEK STEAMER

CONSTANTINOPLE, Oct. 17 (by the Associated Press).—A Turkish gunboat in the Black sea has captured the Greek steamer Ouranis, of 2500 tons, carrying a cargo of wood from Constantinople to Constantia. The steamer was stopped near Aldia and boarded by a Turkish prize crew. She was towed to Heraclea and the captain and crew were declared prisoners of war.

This capture, announced today, marks the first appearance since last March of the Kemalists, who consist of two obsolete Turkish gunboats and one torpedo boat destroyer of an old type purchased from Russia.

At the present time because the buildings there are right on the spot where the new dock is to be laid. The department is anxious to get at this work so that the city will be able to complete the construction by the time the new highway is completed.

Regarding Lakeview avenue, the superintendent said that work there had also been held up owing to the fact that the railway company did not live up to an agreement made earlier in the summer. He said that the company promised to turn over Lakeview area the week after Labor day but this had not been done until last week. He said that the railway company did not wish to disturb its tracks leading to Lakeview park until after Labor day, but even when that day had passed the street was not placed at the disposal of the department.

The work on the Anne street parkway is completed and the department is busy doing Kirk street. Here the superintendent said that the board did not decide to do the Kirk street work until recently and that it was thrust on the department at the last minute.

Summing up the entire proposition Supt. Doherty said that the street department would function and was ready to function providing that it got the co-operation from other sources.

VILLAGE IMPROVEMENTS TO BE DISCUSSED

Tonight is the night for the most important annual business meeting ever held by the Chelmsford Village Improvement Association. With the standing a counter-attraction of the annual order of merit—the annual harvest supper of the Unitarian society, which is to be served at 5:30 o'clock, but not in any way interfering with the association meeting to start at 8 p. m. in the town hall—interest in Chelmsford Centre and the outlying villages in the improvement association's annual rally will not be shadowed.

Urgent calls sent out yesterday by postal card notification to all members and friends of the association to endeavor to attend and tonight's business meeting of this band of energetic men and women citizens of Chelmsford and not forget the hour. For tonight's meeting is guaranteed to be momentous enough to interest every good citizen of the old town who has the civic welfare and physical appearance of the hamlet at heart.

More than 75 cards have been mailed to the association rank and file by Mrs. Edith A. Hemenway, active secretary of the association.

There is much to do tonight besides electing new officers for the coming year. Various town improvements are being discussed with a view to the citizens who constitute a part of the organization that has been such an invigorating force in the Chelmsford

JOHN DOE CONVICTED AND SENT TO PRISON

WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., Oct. 17.—Probably for the first time in the history of courts, John Doe has been convicted and sent to prison. In a case tried here yesterday, the defendant was a deaf and dumb negro, unable to tell by writing his name, and so the court entry was "John Doe, alias." He was sentenced to eight months in jail on a charge of putting his arms around a white woman. Witnesses testified that he was under the influence of a drug at the time of the act.

HINES SPEAKS ON R. R. PROBLEM

Former Director-General Points Out New Opportunities for Ingenuity

Present Difficulties Constitute Only a Temporary Emergency Condition

Annual Meeting of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—Walker D. Hines, former director-general of railroads, pointed out new opportunities for ingenuity and initiative in railroad operation in an address at the annual meeting of the Associated Industries of Massachusetts.

The present difficulties in railroad service, he said, constituted only a temporary emergency condition, and he addressed himself more to consideration of the railroad problem in its permanent aspect. As to the labor situation, Mr. Hines said that while standardization of wages, agreement on working conditions and the decisions of the labor board have restricted the initiative of the railroad yet there was still opportunity to find new ways to make progress.

"These conditions, he added, while tending to limit railroad initiative in the direction of independent action on the part of any one management, yet necessarily call for even greater initiative and ingenuity in order to improve existing conditions and adjust railroad practice and labor conditions to each other.

"My observation on these matters has led me to believe that in the past the railroad managements have concentrated their efforts on the larger use of efficiency in the movements of trains over their roads and have not given corresponding amount of attention to the efficiency of labor in handling cars in the terminals or to the efficiency of labor in maintaining road, as to the efficiency of the railroad in the use of cars and locomotives. Yet only about 10 per cent. of operating expenses relate to road movement of trains and about 65 per cent. of operating expenses relate to operation in terminals and to maintenance of road and equipment. It is the terminal work and in the maintenance work that the increased labor cost proves most burdensome. I cannot avoid the belief that great opportunities still exist for important improvements in the use of terminal labor and of maintenance labor.

But there remains an even greater field for effort and initiative in my opinion has never been worked by railroad managements like it ought to have been and like it must be in the future, and that is the field of the relationship between the management and the employees. At the present time I think many railroad managements are giving serious attention to this great problem.

"I believe a sincere spirit of desire to promote the welfare of the employees and a settled policy to obtain through regular conferences, the views of the employees as to what their welfare requires and to explain to the employees the necessities of the management, will have a progressively beneficial effect upon the efficiency of railroad labor. But the movement shall find its source in a genuine desire to consider the needs of the employee, to try to understand and appeal to his point of view, and to promote his welfare as an integral part of the transportation organization.

"I wish to suggest in addition, that even with respect to the gross earnings of operating revenues, it is by no means clear that this industry is at an end. Of course, practically without exception, the rates are fixed by public authority, but there still remains to the railroad management the question of studying the traffic and seeing how it can be further developed.

"If it is a fact that the New England railroads are actually losing money in performing commutation service, it is a situation which the public owes to itself to take the initiative to correct because it is the public which will suffer from the error."

Mr. Hines said he understood that motor trucks were making very serious inroads on railroad traffic, and that it is a fact that the motor trucks do not pay for the damage they do to the public highways. "The public certainly ought to take the initiative to correct this situation by imposing proper taxes on the motor trucks. The public does not pay the subsidies that are granted to help to break down the steam railroad system which is essential to the public welfare."

President Charles H. Gow speaks.

Unless the present trend of unscientific economic reasoning is arrested and sane and logical analysis substituted therefor, it is inevitable that the industrial life of this nation will be threatened with extinction. Charles H. Gow, president of the Associated Industries, said in his annual address.

"So distinguished a personage as the present secretary of labor has repeatedly asserted during the past year that high wages make for prosperity by reason of the greater purchasing power thereby created and this theory has been eagerly accepted by labor spokesmen and supporters everywhere as a perfectly obvious conclusion.

"Although the people of this country must now depend upon the earnings of industry for their living, they do not seem to realize that the assessment of excessive taxation upon business enterprise must serve to deplete those earnings to an extent which is bound to be reflected in higher prices of commodities, lower wages to labor or both."

Wentworth Stewart of Washington, D. C., speaking on "Industry and the Public Weal," said:

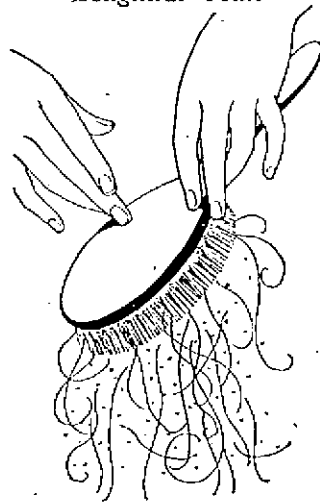

"We have reached that point in industrial planning where we cannot hope to obtain peace and establish prosperity by attempted adjustments between capital and labor, unless we shall also understand as operators and equally as laborers that the general public is concerned with our strike and our settlements. Education is the hope of the successful pursuit of such a course."

of his head when he beheld the man charged with his kidnapping and whom he had learned to call "daddy."

"Who is this man?" an officer asked the boy as he pointed at Choquette sitting six feet away.

The lad hung his head, his lips quivered, he stole furtive glances at the sun-browned ex-new puncher and faltering said, "He's my old daddy."

"Did I buy you ice cream," asked Choquette. "Yes," sighed the boy, "buy me some now."

"Did I buy you clothes and shoes?" asked the prisoner. "Not these shoes," parried the lad.

"What's your mother's name?" queried Choquette.

"Gerry," said the child (that is Mrs. Choquette's given name).

Thus the dialogue continued. The man assumed an "I told you so" attitude. The child seemed fearful of either Choquette or the presence of so many men. The lad admitted that he would go back to live with Choquette "if I can take my new bicycle."

Mrs. Smith of Dighton, who accompanied the boy to the courthouse, was then brought in. She faced the man who charges kidnapping her child in 1919. Each was quiet, took a long searching gaze at each other.

Mrs. Smith accused him of leaving the child at the Lancaster farm in Maine after the child had been beaten and interceded for by Farmer Lancaster.

"I never beat the child," said the prisoner, "ask himself."

It was hard to get the boy to answer. He stared as though spell-bound at Choquette. He turned his eyes then on Mrs. Smith. He was ready to cry when an officer caught his attention.

"Did this man whip you?"

"He will whip me if I say he whipped me," the youngster came back. He was assured that was impossible.

Whipped When Naughty
The boy with sagacity beyond his disordered years and with manifest desire to please Choquette, replied by wishing the beatings on Mrs. Choquette, who was not present. He said: "My mother pulled my ears and he whipped me when I was naughty and when I didn't have lots of toys."

Choquette was accused of making the boy ride beneath the seat of the wagon. The child denied his story of last week when he said it was so. He compromised and said he was only partly beneath the seat, but sometimes was made to run alongside the horse.

Mrs. Smith glared at Choquette. He laughed and said the running was excessive, as he didn't want the lad to get cramped.

SCHWAB TELLS HOW TO SUCCEED IN BUSINESS

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—One thousand strong, students thronged the Harvard Union last evening to hear Charles M. Schwab tell how to succeed in business.

The steel magnate told them to be democratic in their associations. By this he did not mean that they should "condescend" to be seen with people not educated as they; he wanted them to be "democratic in spirit." He mentioned Judge Gary and John D. Rockefeller as embodiments of the democratic spirit.

He added good nature as an essential of success and in amplification of this urged that "no man is worth anything if he is not susceptible to the approval of his fellow men." "Blustering anger," he said, gets the business man nowhere. He added absolute integrity and loyalty as other essentials of success.

"The real success comes with the satisfaction of successfully doing, with doing things better than anybody else, and if you wish to rise above the average man, you must do something not done by the average man; you must think."

"I once told this to a group of employees and went away wondering whether they had taken me seriously. Some time later a young man came to see me. 'After I heard you talk,' he said, 'I did some puzzling as to how I might think of something which had not been thought of before. I am a stenographer. I discovered that you spend an hour going to and from your home every day. In that hour you are in your automobile. So I have learned to take down shorthand while riding in an automobile. Will you give me a job?"

"That young man is now my secretary. He has every promise of being one of the great men of American business. If you wish to succeed, do different things, things that have not been done before; do things better than other people."

"Do not be afraid to borrow money if you are ready to back your project with all your personal energy. Mr. Carnegie has said that money borrowed at 5 and 6 per cent. is worth borrowing in the conditions of American industry."

"I am convinced that the United States will lead the world in industry and business within the present generation. We are the workshop of the world. I envy you; you have the chance of making the industrial history—and by that I mean the real history—of the next 50 years."

The audience was as interesting as the speech. Almost an hour before 8, Harvard students began to wander into the Union. Twenty minutes before the opening, every seat was filled. When Mr. Schwab began to speak, students had dragged chairs into the aisles, filled the balcony and overflowed to such an extent that there were men leaning through the second floor windows which look in on the living room where the speech was made. The assembly was football mass meeting size.

UNDERTAKER HEALEY BACK FROM OHIO

Professional standards and ideals and a vision of service ahead of profits, was the compelling message of the convention of the National Selected Morticians at Columbus, Ohio, from which Mr. George W. Healey of this city has just returned.

The National Selected Morticians is the highest type organization to which funeral directors are eligible, membership in which is confined to single individuals in every city, and these by invitation only.

Leading authorities in many lines addressed the convention, according to Mr. Healey, but almost every one of them commended the stand of a professional aim on the part of the mortician. Problems of legislation, of credit, of business development, were all discussed by nationally known experts. It was made clear, too, said Mr. Healey, that if we hope to be leaders in our profession, we have a moral obligation to assist others to higher standards of professional skill and service to humanity.

It is recognized broadly that there are more men endeavoring to make a living by caring for the dead than the requirements of the American people justify, and that in that group there are some who do not appreciate their obligations to society and that the very nature of their contact with their clientele is such that any shortcomings of an individual tend to discredit the entire group.

The convention took action, recommending legislation in favor of a proper mortuary in Washington, D. C., which at present is without suitable accommodation, opposed the effort which is being made in some cities to exclude mortuary establishments from residential districts, and recommended to the municipalities of the country that some legislation be devised for automobiles which are a part of the funeral procession.

PRINCETON-CHICAGO GAME
CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Further application for tickets for the Princeton-Chicago football game here Oct. 28 will not be considered. It was announced today. The University of Chicago football ticket office has been swamped with orders and no seats are left to offer at public sale.

Ticket scalpers are receiving attention from the authorities. Edward O'Brien, a college student, was fined $50 for scalping tickets for last Saturday's Chicago-Northwestern game, and two professional speculators have been arrested.

STATE ELECTION REGISTRATION
The biggest registration day of the current series was yesterday, when the board of election commissioners added 246 new names to the voting lists. Ward totals were as follows: Ward 1, 2, 20; ward 2, 30; ward 4, 26; ward 5, 24; ward 6, 52; ward 7, 8; ward 8, 24; ward 9, 32.

Any breaking out of the skin, even stery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, says a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ-destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment and disfigurement. Sufferers from skin trouble should get a little jar of Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like a cold cream.

Hot Water— or Hot Steam?

—TACO—

WATER-HEATER
Use the heat you have already paid for.

TACO can be attached to any heating plant. The external TACO (shown above) is designed for steam or vapor systems. The Universal TACO, for hot-water and hot-air furnaces, is set in the fire pot itself. TACO comes in different sizes to fit the requirements of any house. Price $2.00 and up, plus installation. Write for booklet.

WHETHER you get hot water or hot steam from your faucet depends on how your domestic water is heated.

The old-fashioned pipe coil in the fire pot of your furnace or boiler cannot be regulated. When the fire is low the water is just warm; when the fire is high, the water is too hot and turns to steam.

TACO Water Heater is designed to do what the pipe coil fails to do. Attached to the outside of your heating plant, it uses the boiling water or live steam to heat your domestic water. It cannot over-heat; it eliminates all worry.

If you depend upon a pipe coil for your hot water, ask your nearest Plumber or Heating Contractor for an estimate for a TACO Water Heater installed. It is designed for any steam or vapor heating plant.

DEALERS: If you haven't TACO in stock, your jobber or the nearest branch office of the leading boiler and radiator manufacturer can supply you.

COL. GASTON VS. LODGE

Col. William A. Gaston in opening his speaking tour at Fitchburg on Saturday evening, made one of the best speeches yet heard on any platform since the campaign opened. He dealt almost entirely with the injustice done to the port of Boston and thereby to Massachusetts by the great railroads in fixing lower freight rates from the west to Philadelphia, Baltimore and Galveston than to Boston. He pointed out that this has left the port of Boston practically idle, despite the fact that it is fitted by nature and every port equipment to handle a very large volume of business. The same influences perhaps that fixed the railroad differential against Boston, arranged that the cost of transportation to Europe would be the same from New York, Philadelphia and Galveston as from Boston, although Boston is much nearer to Europe than any of these ports.

It was certainly a sad tale, that Col. Gaston related in his speech relative to the manner in which the commerce of Boston had been throttled by insidious influences while Senator Lodge held an influential position in congress and yet failed to check this movement that has ruined the commerce of Boston and largely also of New England. Mr. Lodge was depicted as a very busy man and in reality a national institution, but Col. Gaston put the plain blunt question as to what he has done for Massachusetts. The answer is found in the conditions of New England today under discrimination that threatens her industrial activity and gives other parts of the country a decided advantage in competition. Mr. Gaston pointed out that it was largely through the genius and enterprise of New England men that the industries and the commerce of other parts of the country were built up; but now New England seems to be forgotten. Her port lies unused although one of the finest in the world and our railroads are going to ruin. If such a state of affairs is to continue, he said, it portends great injury to our industries, loss of business and loss of employment for thousands of our wage earners all over the states. Colonel Gaston pointed out that had Senator Lodge done his duty to Massachusetts he would have been hammering at the doors of the Interstate Commerce commission and if he failed to secure justice there, he should have taken the matter to congress and there thundered with his eloquence in behalf of justice for New England. Mr. Lodge has done none of these things and for that reason Mr. Gaston allowed that it was high time to make a change. He said Massachusetts wants a senator who will endeavor to obtain from the Interstate Commerce commission, from congress, from the supreme court or from the president what belongs to Massachusetts and her citizens. That would be his special aim, he said, if elected, as he confidently hoped to be. Colonel Gaston gave very convincing reasons as to why he should be elected to take the place of the senator senator.

DIRECT PRIMARIES AGAIN

The direct primary system of nominations, which played a prominent part in the pre-convention campaign of the republican party in Idaho, is expected to be one of the hardest fought issues in the contests at the November election in that state. The issue involves the two principal parties in the progressive party, comprising the farmer-labor element. United States Senator Borah has taken a stand in favor of abolishing the present state convention system of nominations in Idaho for a direct state primary. Although he had the support in this position of the delegation from one county, in which Boise is located, the republican state convention refused to accept his leadership and declared for the present system of state conventions, preceded by county primaries, at which candidates for county officers and delegates to the county conventions are selected. The county conventions in turn select delegates to the state convention. The republican convention called for an amendment of the present system to require the voter to declare his party affiliation when he votes at the primaries.

MUSICALLY UNCIVILIZED

Evidently different men have very different ideas of barbarism and savagery. Here, for instance, is Prof. Peter W. Dykema of the University of Wisconsin, who says that so far as instrumental music is concerned, we are in a rather uncivilized state. Most people on reading this statement would at once assume that he refers to jazz; but strange to say, he thinks that jazz has a rhythm, vitality and verve that are real contributions to music and that the trouble with jazz usually is the players rather than the jazz itself. Strange that a critic so ready to make a sweeping charge against the musical appreciation of the American people, should approve what they regard as a burlesque on real music. It might be well for this professor to be more specific and explain what he means by the music of civilization. Real civilization is spiritual rather than material. In regard to music, it is a matter of high accomplishment and artistic appreciation. If our dislike of jazz is the only reason why this professor thinks us uncivilized, most people of refinement will refuse to accept his idea of what constitutes civilization or even musical culture.

THE DOCTOR IN POLITICS

Dr. Royal S. Copeland, health commissioner of New York city, democratic candidate for the United States senate, is a good physician and his friends believe that he would make a first-class senator. There are few graduates of medicine in congress at the present time. Senator Francis of Maryland, a republican, is the only physician at present in that body. Another doctor in the senate would do no harm, as Brother Hennessey of the Globe political reporting staff says. At the present time the lawyers are in the majority in the upper branch of congress.

INSURING EMPLOYEES

The Eastern Massachusetts railroad is to be congratulated upon the adoption of a system of insurance for its employees after a stated period of service. Insurance comes high nowadays and the fact that an employee is insured for a sum ranging as high as $2000 is certainly worth considering. It will cause the men to have a greater interest in the work of the company, and to hesitate before going on strike, or leaving the service. We believe that such action if copied by other companies, will go far toward the solution of the labor problems that cause conflicts between employers and their help, resulting very often in enforced idleness and serious loss and injury to all concerned. By this means the company will have a more secure hold on the experienced men which will be one means of lessening the number of accidents for which heavy damages have to be paid.

L. H. S. ATHLETICS

Those who have charge of high school athletics should devise ways and means for improving the football teams that have been playing this season. It may be, that the men in charge have not as good material as the high schools of other cities furnish. It may be also that the rules here regarding the conditions on which students may enter the football teams are more strict than those of some other schools. We believe this is undoubtedly the case as some schools, we understand, sacrifice scholarship to success on the gridiron. We believe Lowell can furnish as good material for a football team as most other cities if the proper methods be adopted and if the team gets the right kind of backing, which it should get, so long as it is pitted to meet the teams of other cities.

GERMAN INDEMNITY

French statistics, recently circulated, show that Germany since the end of the war has paid only $100,000,000 cash indemnity, or $1.61 a year for each German. Lang German consul in New York city, says the figure should be $522,000,000 instead of $100,000,000. That would make the cash indemnity payments $2.10 a year, instead of $1.61, for each German. Incidentally, Lang claims that Germany has paid about $5,522,000,000 total indemnity, to date, including value of lost territory and other property surrendered. It is not clear how he appraises the colonies taken from Germany.

PARENTS TO BLAME

Teeth should be put in laws making parents responsible for wrong conduct of their children. So urges District Attorney O'Brien, addressing the Jewish Big Brother association of Boston. As emphasized previously, something eventually will have to be done along this line. American youth these days is the target of many hot shots. The trouble generally is with parents, not with their offspring. If the parents fail to do their duty by their children, it will not be surprising if the latter go astray. The parents should be obliged to meet their responsibility.

REGISTRATION

Only one day more after this in which to get registered for the state election. Tomorrow is the last day under the law on which registration can be conducted by the election commission. The commission has, therefore, arranged to remain in session from 12 o'clock noon till 10 p. m. to afford an opportunity to those who so desire, to get their names on the voting list. In order to avoid the rush in the evening those who can do so, should attend in the afternoon.

PEN AND SWORD

We aren't quite as peaceful as we imagine. A government report says that about 13,000 American wage earners are employed making typewriters and supplies, against 10,000 making ammunition and 5000 making firearms. Since the typewriter is the modern pen and ammunition and the gun the modern sword, the saying that "the pen is mightier than the sword" will bear checking up on its industrial side. The railroads of the country are bringing us straight toward a coal famine, which in turn will be the strongest possible argument for government ownership of all the railroads. If the railroads would call in the shopmen who are out on strike, they would have less trouble with disabled locomotives and stalled cars. Will the city have to pay all the expenses incurred by Mayor Brown in the Plan B fight, which is solely a political matter?

SEEN AND HEARD

This is a small world, but there is room for more big men. Horror upon horror crowds Russia. Latest one is the railways have opened their restaurants again. Massachusetts strikers who attacked policemen with bottles may plead they thought it was a ball game.

A Thought

To be a strong hand in the dark to another in the time of need is a cup of strength to a human soul in a crisis of weakness, is to know the glory of life.—Hugh Black.

Made It Smaller

The amateur gardener was digging away at the weeds in his potato patch. "Makes it harder," with the weeds so thick, doesn't it?" said a friend who was looking on. "No, it's easier," replied the enthusiast. "You don't have to walk so far to the next weed."

Today's Word

Today's word is dawdle. It's pronounced—with accent on the first syllable. It means—to idle, to loiter, to waste time. It comes from old English, to dawdle like a child. Companion word—dawdler. It's used like this—"Instead of working, the workmen dawdled about all day."

The Wrong Chance

The lady was obviously upset. She looked at the money in her hand, and, turning to her husband, said: "Why, honey, I've given the wrong change!" Hubby was annoyed. This sort of thing had happened before. "I thought so," he said. "That's the way my hand-earned money goes! Trust a woman to get fooled! Now go back to the counter at once, Jane, and get it put right." She went dutifully, and when she returned she said: "Well, it is right now?" "O, quite!" he answered. "He'd given me a dollar too much!"

Made Poor Hans

The shadows lay thick beneath the trees, and where they were deepest a figure crouched. Suddenly he heard a sound, a light footfall on the grass. "Yes," came the answer. "What you doing with that dog?" he muttered. As his burglar partner drew near. "Why," answered his confederate, "there was nothing worth taking in the house, and it's bad luck to come away without anything. So I pinched his watchdog and these burglar alarms!"

Pretty Good Stealer

Jenkins who had gone to a general store to make a few purchases, happened to notice a large gold coin lying on the floor. He picked it up excitedly, and glancing cautiously around to see that no one was watching him, he dropped it quite accidentally, of course—one of his gloves on top of the coin. Then bending, he proceeded to pick up his glove. But the coin did not accompany it. It remained where it was. Jenkins looked at it for a moment, then he picked it up and made a second attempt to get hold of it, but with the same result. As he was contemplating the wisdom of a third endeavor a clerk approached him, and said: "Good day, May I be allowed to show you a little of our famous jewelry?" Jenkins believed that you are aware of its sticking powers.—But Jenkins had fled.

Envy

I never knew a car could run so smoothly. I never dreamed that tires would wear so long. That engine was so noiseless and so tricky. Until I heard that salesman's ardent song. From him I learned the joy of riding easily. With never a fear that ought will go amiss. He taught me all the beauties of Ig. And that to own a car like his was bliss. O, may I never know a rude awakening. From the fair dream he gave to me. Long may I revel in sweet perfection. Of that—the car I never yet have bought. —Gora S. Day in New York Sun.

Miss Loretta Messier presided at the meeting and besides the regular routine business transacted, it was decided that the head cheer, now on exhibition in Robertson's furniture store, be put on display in the hall on the evening of the dance. Mrs. Nellie Mack was appointed vice president and Mrs. Annie Robbins was selected to the position of senior vice president, both to serve for the remainder of the year. Miss Nellie Mack was appointed to the past president's chair of the auxiliary. A second report on relief work was read by Mrs. Bessie McDermott.

THE MAN ABOUT TOWN

Railroad officials controlling the local district of the Boston & Maine and the N. Y. N. H. & H. railroads are "fixing up" for the winter period of strenuous days and battles with the storm king. And what week work was reported by many of the long plank walks running out of the railroad station district of Middlesex st., and reaching down toward the old Gold siding transfer yards. Many of the planks are unusually long and have to be shortened somewhat to fit the places where they are to be laid. A good deal of lumber has been required for the repair jobs, many walks between the numerous main and freight track siding rails being rotted away and dangerous for railroad men's use when they travel up and down and about the great railroad transfer territory below the station.

V'elot Rabbi Wolfson

A "V'elot" Rabbi Wolfson a few days ago to ascertain what his program is to be for the local Palestine collection fund. I found him preparing to respond to a hurry call to an important Jewish church conference in Portland, Me., the call being received over the telephone. He requested being made by an old-time friend, who declined to tell the rabbi what it was all about. But he accepted the call just the same, and knows that he may be able to help someone, or straighten out some church matters that may need attention. The sort of an appeal is not unusual for the local rabbi to receive, and his warm hearted response is always prompt and generously extended. As he told The Man About Town yesterday, "I am not a rabbi at any other time of any faith, I am glad to do so if it is in my power. I care not what his religion is so long as he is truthful and honest and is sincerely desirous of help. That is my policy."

When Roy Parchart

learned that the Cohen theatrical people could not come to Lowell a week ago, the Rotarians of the city, who are not disappointed, for he had been "bunking" upon this fine attraction, but that he would leave none of the proverbial stones unturned to get these actors up here some time before their Boston engagement ended. That is the Rotarian committee headed by the Rev. Roy Russell, made a re-engagement of the Boston players for the Tuesday meeting of the present week. It was a good job on Roy's part and the Rotarians appreciated his shrewdness in pluckily keeping up the fight for a complete theatrical good thing as the Cohen as originally announced.

I understand the Boston & Maine

"tag day" committee that went to North Andover last Saturday, and heard of the tag day, the villagers out that way responding generously to the appeals of the strikers' committee. The sign of good will and generosity appears to go everywhere the strikers committee travel, and the men who are fighting for fair wages and better conditions for such splendid support here, there and everywhere, good example of which is found on the Saturday tag days, when appeals for funds are always well met.

The Lowell members of the Middle-

Mr. Teel was an active member some years ago, but has not attended many meetings lately. He has a son, Ernest M. Teel, in Acton, who is a farmer of note and a well known apple producer as well as apple buyer. The latter would make a good number for the society's trustees. Mr. Teel, Sr. is not able to attend further meetings. The younger Teel is prominent in county farming circles, is a good speaker and greatly interested in agricultural matters. The Man About Town has known Mr. Teel since boyhood and can vouch for his progressive ideas and farming and other branches of business.

Probation Officer Joseph Cronin

drove his Ford sedan from New York to Lowell last Friday. It's some Ford. With the recent of the coming Halloween party, I met Mr. Cronin yesterday and his first question to me was: "Where is that Dead Horse film I hear so much talk of on the road between Worcester and Springfield?" Now, gentle readers, Dead Horse film is about as difficult to negotiate as any film of the state. Mr. Cronin is not able to attend further meetings. The younger Teel is prominent in county farming circles, is a good speaker and greatly interested in agricultural matters. The Man About Town has known Mr. Teel since boyhood and can vouch for his progressive ideas and farming and other branches of business.

MISS MARY TOBIN

A very enjoyable supper and dance was held Saturday evening, Oct. 14th, at Odd Fellows hall in Centralville in honor of Miss Mary Tobin, a popular employee in the accounting department of the local milk, who is soon to become the bride of Mr. Walter McInerney. During the supper Miss Tobin was presented a handsome chest of silver with best wishes for happiness from her business associates, and although taken by surprise, she responded in a very pleasing manner. The table and hall were prettily decorated with autumn leaves and cut flowers. After the supper a very pleasing musical program was carried out with solo by Miss Rita Carolan, Mrs. Hartley, Mr. Joseph J. Higginbottom, accompanied by Miss May Moray at piano. General dancing followed, which was enjoyed by all. Much of the success of the party was due to the efforts of Miss Rita Carolan and Mrs. Jennie M. Millman. Mr. Robert Hetherington in the role of toastmaster could not be surpassed. The party broke up at a reasonable hour, all wishing Miss Tobin the best of good luck and success in her new life. The Lydon company catered.

MIDDLE-AGED PEOPLE

"Middle-aged people," Youth greets them with jeers, And scouts at the wisdom that goes with their years; So Youth rushes in without worry or doubt, And gets into trouble and then is pulled out By middle-aged people who long ago learned The use of the caution that youngsters have spurned.

"Middle-aged people," they're stodgy and tame, But somehow or other they're wise to the game, And though Youth imagines it's running the show, The middle-aged people are making it go. Bore of illusions, experienced, wise, The middle-aged people have pretty good eyes.

"Middle-aged People," they're lacking in pep, They "look 'ore they leap," and they watch every step, And Youth says they're slow, and I reckon they are, But speed without thought doesn't get very far, And therefore, while Youth is alert and athrob, It's middle-aged people who dope out the job!

"Middle-aged People"—they often hold back, They don't like new paths, they prefer the old track, And Youth frets and rages at order and rule, While middle-aged people just smile and keep cool, For, spite of the talk that the youngsters have buried, The middle-aged people are running the world! (Copyright Lowell Sun, 1922)

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—The body of a man found floating in the Neponset river early today, was identified as that of Reginald Ruggles, who was thrown into the water recently when an automobile in which he was one of several passengers, crashed into a bridge. His body was nude and the police, in seeking to determine what had become of Ruggles' clothing, said they would seek the driver of the machine.

Still Explodes, Causing $20,000 Damage

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—The explosion of a 50-gallon still in a supposedly unoccupied room in the Leopold building on Beverly street today, caused an estimated damage of $20,000 to the six story building. The flames burned through the roof. The building is occupied by several manufacturing firms. Police investigating the fire found partly destroyed labels marked "95 per cent alcohol."

RULES FOR USE OF OIL IN HEATERS ISSUED

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—State Fire Marshal George C. Neale yesterday conferred with deputy marshals of the Metropolitan District and, following the meeting, urged the consideration of the public to the following regulations concerning the use of oil in heaters:

"No person shall keep a store or use oil in a building in connection with domestic oil-heating apparatus, in an amount in excess of 20 gallons thereof, except in accordance with these rules and regulations, unless a permit has been obtained therefor from the state fire marshal, or the official herein designated by him to grant such permit."

Attention is called to the provision for permits. There are 14 sections of these rules, making regulations for the quality of oil for domestic oil-heating apparatus, regarding heat test, the thickness of the steel wall of tanks; the location of oil tanks; the connection between the tanks and the oil-burning apparatus; the distance of the tanks from any open fire or flame; connection with shut-off valves; prohibition of gravity flow from tank to burner; requirement of chimney with strong draft; cautions about lighting the pilot light; observance of the rules and also the directions of the manufacturers of oil-burning apparatus; and the posting of the rules and instructions near the apparatus, displayed in print.

The subjects covered by drafts of rules and regulations follow:

The keeping and sale of gasoline or any other volatile inflammable liquid and oils in harbors and inland waters of the commonwealth on gasoline supply boats.

The installation and maintenance of gasoline filling station and the storage, keeping for sale and handling the gasoline and other oils in connection therewith.

The keeping, for sale, storage, manufacture, use and transporting in this commonwealth of explosives.

The construction and maintenance of, and the storage, keeping and use of gasoline in this commonwealth in connection with garages (these regulations to apply only within the Metropolitan fire prevention district).

The storage, handling and use of volatile inflammable liquid in this commonwealth in connection with the processes of dry cleaning, dry dyeing and sponging.

The manufacture, storage and keeping for sale inflammable compounds and volatile inflammable liquid in connection therewith.

These regulations will be submitted to the governor and council for approval.

LEGION DISCUSSES

ARMISTICE EVE BALL

Last night's American Legion meeting was given over wholly to the discussion of the Armistice eve ball. Naturally the routine work was accomplished, but the plans for the ball took up the center of the stage all night. From the report of committees the ball is going to be one of the biggest affairs of its kind staged in the city and may rival the R. of C. and Elk affairs to a certain degree.

A communication was read from the Roosevelt memorial committee inviting the legion to attend the memorial exercises to be held at the Auditorium

on Oct. 27. It was voted to accept the invitation.

The general committee on the ball will meet again tonight in Memorial hall to discuss more plans in connection with the dance. The tickets are already printed and will be ready for distribution in down town stores within a few days.

CONFERENCE AT

WOMEN'S CLUB

A departmental conference under the auspices of the state home economics department was held at the Middlesex Women's club yesterday afternoon, with representatives present from a number of clubs in the 10th district, including Billerica, Lawrence, Haverhill,

Ayer, Reading, Westford and West Newbury.

It was a gathering of great interest for housekeepers, as the subjects discussed were of vital importance in the arts of domestic science and home economics.

As Lowell was the hostess club a word of welcome was spoken by Mrs. Otis L. Humphrey, president, after which there were words of greeting from Mrs. Walter Perkins, district director.

Addresses were given by Mrs. A. B. Bixby, chairman of the state department of home economics, on "The Housewife's Home Economics," Miss Harriet Alinsworth, on "A Knowledge of Textiles," and by Mrs. Elizabeth S. McDonald, of the Modern Friskella staff, on "Practically Managed Homes." Each talk was particularly interesting and

each was entirely different from the other, although bearing directly upon the main question under discussion.

IRENE CASTLE HAS BOTH EARS SHOWING

All New York stopped, turned and looked, and then looked again when Irene Castle, who comes to the Memorial Auditorium Oct. 28, returned from a summer trip to Europe with both ears showing. Shop girls screamed the news to each other. Matrons and dignified old ladies turned to stare. Even the men looked. There was Irene stepping along daintily as ever with a jaunty little French hat on top of her bobbed curls and two tiny ears peeking out from the brim of her hat. Gone, too, was the short skirt and in its place Irene wore a demure model of white satin reaching to her shoe tops.

Miss Castle is going to wear gowns at her Lowell engagement that she has never worn before. She is going to have three distinct sets of costumes for her appearance here that are worth a small fortune. Particularly dazzling will be her gown made completely of white feathers which she has been collecting for the past three years. She will bring to Lowell something just a little ahead of what the smarter shops are now showing, something not right up-to-the-minute, but a trifle beyond.

With her will be the Castle Ensemble and Moscow orchestra. She will present the latest and newest dances in her own, inimitable manner.

BIG NEW HOTEL FOR LOWELL

Chamber of Commerce is Considering Hotel Problem
From Many Angles

Meeting Tomorrow Night to
Hotel Working Committees

Emphasizing the success that has accompanied previous campaigns to raise funds by public subscription and build hotels in other cities of the country, the Hockenbury System, Inc., today sent a telegram to Secretary-Manager George F. Wells, once more requesting that the concern be given an opportunity to demonstrate its methods of organized effort, efficient management and experienced direction.

Until the chamber officials have considered the entire hotel project from many angles and heard reports from committees soon to be appointed, no favorable action can be taken with the Hockenbury concern or any other hotel organization for the present. The telegram received today emphasized the methods of fund-collecting that met with so much success in Gardner, Mass., where a campaign has just been completed.

The chamber officers were livelier than usual this morning, with official activities numerous, some of them created by the publicity given the campaign for a new hotel. Public interest has been thoroughly aroused and the mail received daily at the chamber indicates widespread interest in the project. The news that the Hockenbury System, Inc., which conducted so successful a campaign for a new hotel in Gardner, now desires to start at once a similar campaign in Lowell when the time is fully ripe, is something that accretes current interest in the popular project.

The hotel campaigners received new support today when it was announced at the chamber executive offices that formal meetings were on the cards for tomorrow night, leading the way to regular committee appointments and permanent organization. This morning when the executive offices announced the names of the temporary committees that will be empowered to choose from a list of Lowell citizens names a permanent committee with executive powers sufficient to handle the new hotel project, the chamber committee, which has been requested by Secretary-Manager Wells to meet at organization headquarters on the third floor of the Fairbank building, tomorrow evening at 7:45 o'clock, is composed of the following members: Albert B. Milliken of the Hamilton Co. chairman.

William N. Goodell of the Locks & Canals Co.

Percy J. Wilson of the Lowell Electric Lighting Co.

Royal P. White of the Sterling mill.

At tomorrow night's meeting, this quarter of representatives of several of the city's manufacturing and service institutions, a good-sized committee of Lowell citizens will be named to formally take up the new hotel proposition and push it to the limit. Names for this important committee are being received by the chamber committee on committees, but no announcements will be made of final choice until the committee decides upon the list tomorrow evening.

LABOR LEADER IS CAMPAIGNING HERE

John Van Varenwyck, vice-president of the Massachusetts state branch of the American Federation of Labor, is spending a couple of weeks in this city campaigning against the referendum, which will appear on the ballot at the state election, one of which is the Voluntary Associations act, while the other is the Moving Picture Censorship act.

Mr. Van Varenwyck addressed meetings of the Loomfixers, Telephone Workers, and Bricklayers last evening and this morning he spoke to the members of the Federated Crafts of the Boston & Maine railroads. He stated that both bills are a drive against labor and fraternal organizations and he urged his listeners to vote "No" on both questions. He said that both the national and state branches of the American Federation of Labor have unanimously voted that the motion picture is a necessary amusement, making possible entertainment in every locality, and that it should not be regulated by censorship, for censorship will mean fewer pictures, advanced prices and entertainment that the people do not want. He further stated that by voting for censorship it is like saying Russia is good and America is bad.

During his stay in Lowell Mr. Van Varenwyck will address all the labor organizations and he will endeavor to speak at meetings of fraternal organizations.

PROBATE COURT IN SESSION HERE

Justice Leggett presided over the probate court session, which was held in this city this morning. In the course of the forenoon two decrees nisi were granted in divorce cases, two wills were allowed and two administrations were granted.

The decrees granted were as follows: Elmer S. Hodgkins vs. Sophie F. Hodgkins, desertion. Mildred L. McKeon vs. Edward McKeon, statutory offense, nilimony $400.

The wills allowed were as follows: Mattie L. Sanborn, Lowell, and Edwin S. Easton, Lowell.

The administrations granted were: Jane Gettings, Lowell, and Michael J. Shea, Lowell.

The military forces of Denmark are to be reduced from 11,500 to 5,700 men.

ACCOUNTING COURSES

Big Registration for University Extension Courses at Textile School

Registration last night for three courses in accountancy in connection with the University Extension courses, held at Lowell Textile school, brought forth about 85 students who were to take up the work this year. Included in the 85 were 40 who registered for the elementary course, otherwise known as the first year course. According to Prof. Herbert J. Ball, who has charge of the classes, the number signifying their intentions of taking up this subject will be well over a 100 as many who came last night were not prepared to make the $5 deposit necessary for the course of 15 lessons. Those who have not already registered will be given an opportunity to do so next Monday and Tuesday nights at the school between the hours of 7 and 9. This is the only place where it is possible to register for these courses outside of the state house in Boston. The accountancy courses are not new ones at the school, but have been held for the past four years. There are three classes, elementary or first year, principles or second year, and cost or third year. A person may enter any class he desires. At the start of each class the work is outlined and the individual is left to determine his eligibility for any of the courses.

JEWISH FUND CAMPAIGN STARTS HERE SUNDAY

Although a week behind the Boston leaders in the "Palestine fund" subscription, the Lowell workers in the Jewish campaign for giving succor to deserving brethren in the home land are undaunted.

Arrangements were completed today by prominent members of the Jewish race in Lowell and vicinity to begin the "Palestine fund" campaign for funds in aid of the Palestine Foundation fund.

At the home of Rabbi Elias Wolfson this morning, it was stated that plans had been made for a monster mass meeting to be held next Sunday in the Jewish synagogue, Sons of Mordecai, on Pearl street, and great interest in the fund has been created in the formal announcements circulated today.

More than $250,000 is expected to be raised in Greater Boston alone, and Lowell will try and contribute a goodly sum to aid the foundation program, according to Rabbi Wolfson.

The formal opening of the Karen Hayes fund occurred in Boston Monday evening, with a banquet at the Elks club, Huntington avenue. Samuel intermyer of New York, head of the Karen Hayes fund of the U. S. A. C. Col. Joseph J. Westwood, member of the British parliament, and Sir Auckland Geddes, British ambassador to the United States, were the principal speakers.

Last year the Palestine Foundation fund committee raised more than $1,000,000 for the cause.

The money is used in Palestine for the foundation of the Jewish homeland through the maintaining of a series of public services and institutions, with agricultural colonization, sanitation and education given principal importance. The educational system comprises 127 schools, with 600 teachers and 13,000 pupils entirely supported by this fund.

Among the other activities supported in Palestine by the fund are a medical and sanitation service which had its origin in the United States in 1918, and a bank, which promotes building operations in city and country, and an immigration service bureau which takes care of newcomers on their landing and provides them with work and homes.

LOWELL DISTRICT COURT

Appeals From $75 Fine
and Direct Sentence

Hypolite Buslewicz, charged with the illegal keeping of liquor, appeared in the district court this morning and was ordered to pay a fine of $75 and spend one month in the house of correction. Buslewicz appealed and was held in bonds of $300 for his appearance in the superior court on the first Monday in November.

Hypolite's case is one of long standing on the court records. Testimony was offered, showing that on the evening of August 17, certain members of the liquor squad visited his wife's store in Howe street and in the course of their investigation, they came across a ginger ale bottle of moonshine, concealed in a baby carriage, one gallon of the same variety on the shelf and eight bottles of Jamaica Ginger in various parts of the store.

The defendant denied all knowledge of his liquor and contended that the goods had been placed on the property by a man who wished to see him arrested as a common law offender. Judge Pickman carefully compared the evidence of defendant's witnesses and also that of a young boy who claimed he had purchased moonshine at the Buslewicz establishment on numerous occasions, and found defendant guilty. In June, 1921, Buslewicz was fined $100 in the local court for illegal keeping and another $100 on August 5 of this year, on a charge of maintaining a public nuisance.

Other offenders

George F. Maguire, for drunkenness, was sentenced to one month in the house of correction, Bridget D. Dolan to the same place for a similar period of time, and Thomas F. Brady, 20 days to the house of correction.

James Bryan pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness and was given a suspended sentence of three months in the house of correction. He was told by the court that if he did not stop drinking, he would soon find himself in jail or in the graveyard.

For being a vagrant, Florence O'Neill was committed to the reformatory at Bridgewater. Frank Landry, whose case came up today, following a continuance from Oct. 7, on a charge of drunkenness, was placed in the care of the probation officer.

SEALED VERDICT FOR DEFENDANT

A sealed verdict for the defendant was returned this morning at the civil session of the superior court by the jury in the case of the plaintiff, Merrill vs. Thomas H. Braden. This was an action of tort by which the plaintiff sought to recover damages for personal injuries, alleged to have been caused when she slipped on a rug covered with a bottle of a taxicab owned by the defendant.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The annual election of officers of the Woodbine Social and Athletic club, Inc. took place last Sunday after the regular meeting of the club. The new officers assumed office immediately and the retiring officers were accorded a rising vote of thanks.

After the installation, an entertainment was provided and refreshments served. Those taking part in the entertainment were: Mrs. Kane, Charles McQuade, both brothers, and Francis Lawless.

The officers elected for 1923 are: Martin Brick, president; Helen Booth, vice president; George Sullivan, treasurer; John Scholen, financial secretary; William Lester, recording secretary; and five for board of directors are: George Curtin, John Kane, Vincent Trainor, Thomas Housley, Christy Graham.

Plans for the coming season were made and committees elected to work on the different events scheduled. The following committees were elected for 1923: Maurice Thynne, William Lester, James Bowen, Henry Booth, Peter Thynne, Athletic committee: 1923: William Booth, Hugh Ferguson, Robert Fates.

School to Occupy Remodeled Brown Estate

After several months of preparation, during which extensive alterations have been made, the Xavierian Brothers of St. Patrick's parish are about to remove their community quarters from the present location on Wilder street to the more pretentious and up-to-date premises at the corner of Fletcher and Varney streets overlooking the spacious green of the North common. The new and modern home is now ready for occupancy and if present plans mature, the brothers will be housed there the latter part of this week, following a day of public inspection on Thursday between the hours of 9 and 5 in the afternoon, and 7 and 9 in the evening. It will be recalled that the brothers originally resided in Varney street just a short distance from Fletcher, but because of the lack of suitable conveniences in that territory, it was deemed best to move to their new quarters. The new home is a two-story building, located on Wilder street. That was about four years ago and while the Wilder street residence was an imposing and a comfortable one, the intervening distance between the school and St. Patrick's school in Suffolk street, where the brothers spend their days in teaching, was too great and occasioned additional hardships and inconveniences, especially during the winter months and for this reason, the late monsignor, always considerate of others in religion, purchased the old Brown estate at the junction of Fletcher and Varney streets and, under his personal direction, the renovating process was started early last summer.

The remodeled house contains 16 rooms and is ideally fitted for a community residence. All modern improvements have been installed, in fact, everything possible has been done to have it compare favorably with the best community house in the order, so that the building as it stands today well-nigh approaches perfection in every respect. A large, commodious living room and a beautiful dining room are two of the many features in connection with the home, and tend to make it an accomplishment of which the parish may be justly proud. The electric lighting equipment and fixtures are of the best quality while the various wall papers of artistic design and correspondingly beautiful borderings.

Several of the floors have been relaid with hard wood, and the lower walls made more substantial by new sheathing. Ornamental fire places, colonial windows, greatly improved the appearance of the living and other rooms and given a decided home-like atmosphere to the place in general. The heating plant is of the latest model, assuring the house of warmth and comfort during the cold weather. From cellar to attic, the new home is a source of pride to the parish in general.

At the close of the ceremony, a wedding supper was served at the home of the groom and later the happy couple left for a honeymoon trip through the states of Maine and New Hampshire. Upon their return they will make their home at 71 Adams street.

Owens—Rowan

Mr. Patrick Owens, a prominent member of the Broadway church, a well known resident of St. Patrick's parish and Miss Catherine M. Rowan, a charming young lady of St. Peter's parish, were united in marriage at St. Peter's rectory last evening at 8 o'clock by Rev. Fr. Shea. The bride was attended by her sister, Miss Grace Rowan, and the best man was John A. Owens, a brother of the groom. The bride was attired in a beautiful gown of white satin and carried a bouquet of white roses. The bridesmaid wore a blue dress with a white collar and carried a bouquet of white roses. After the ceremony the happy couple repaired to the home of the bride's father, Felix Rowan, 154 Smith street, where a wedding dinner was served and a reception held. Mr. and Mrs. Owens received the evening's guests at the home of the bride's father.

The couple left on a honeymoon trip to New York. Upon their return they will make their home at 571 School street.

DELEGATES HERE FOR CONVENTION

Worcester's Representatives to Police Convention Arrived
This Morning

Local Association Has Everything Ready to Entertain 200 or More Delegates

Delegates from Worcester, the city known as "The heart of the commonwealth," are the first to arrive here for the Massachusetts police association convention which will be held in Liberty hall of the Memorial Auditorium on Thursday and Friday. Shortly before court time today, the Worcester delegation, headed by Deputy Chief Thomas McMurray, who is also a past president of the organization, arrived at the police station to renew acquaintances with the commissioned officers there. With Deputy Chief McMurray were Leon E. Joral, present clerk of the association and Thomas Hurley, a member of the executive committee. The trio was a power over the police headquarters and later visited the district court room for a few minutes. The police association has everything in readiness to receive the 200 or more delegates and, according to the schedule as outlined, the delegates will be kept fairly busy.

Approximately 200 delegates will be in attendance at this 23rd convention for practically every city and town that has police under civil service is to send delegates.

Tomorrow's session will open at 12.30 o'clock. The delegates will be welcomed by the mayor and, as is the custom, will be handed the keys to the city. The convention will then go into its first session, which will take up most of the afternoon.

A banquet will be one of the features of the affair. It will be served tomorrow night at 7.30 o'clock in the Auditorium. A list of well known men has been invited to be present including Governor Cox, local justices of the district court supreme court justices, former members of the bar and others.

Thursday's session will conclude at 1 o'clock and the first thing scheduled is a two-hour auto tour of the city. Following the ride, the delegates will resume a business session.

SEALED VERDICT FOR DEFENDANT

A sealed verdict for the defendant was returned this morning at the civil session of the superior court by the jury in the case of the plaintiff, Merrill vs. Thomas H. Braden. This was an action of tort by which the plaintiff sought to recover damages for personal injuries, alleged to have been caused when she slipped on a rug covered with a bottle of a taxicab owned by the defendant.

ELECTION OF OFFICERS

The annual election of officers of the Woodbine Social and Athletic club, Inc. took place last Sunday after the regular meeting of the club. The new officers assumed office immediately and the retiring officers were accorded a rising vote of thanks.

After the installation, an entertainment was provided and refreshments served. Those taking part in the entertainment were: Mrs. Kane, Charles McQuade, both brothers, and Francis Lawless.

The officers elected for 1923 are: Martin Brick, president; Helen Booth, vice president; George Sullivan, treasurer; John Scholen, financial secretary; William Lester, recording secretary; and five for board of directors are: George Curtin, John Kane, Vincent Trainor, Thomas Housley, Christy Graham.

Plans for the coming season were made and committees elected to work on the different events scheduled. The following committees were elected for 1923: Maurice Thynne, William Lester, James Bowen, Henry Booth, Peter Thynne, Athletic committee: 1923: William Booth, Hugh Ferguson, Robert Fates.

TEMPERANCE UNION MEETS

HYANNIS, Oct. 17.—The Women's Christian Temperance union of Massachusetts opened its 49th annual session here today. A program will be one of the features of the gathering which will last for three days. Gov. Channing I. C. is expected to be one of the speakers at the banquet which will bring the convention to a close on Thursday evening.
